Merrifield Park's new olympic-size swi ming pool offers new community activi to MHS'ers during the summer.

AFS student, Suhaila Shamsuddin accep congratulations from Dr. Freeman.

Community boosters showed their interest by christening the stadium with a new sign, "Tupper Field Home of the Fighting Mishawaka Cavemen." At the Central-Mishawaka game, the community honored former MHS coach, Frank Steele, because of his vast contribution to the Mishawaka athletic program. Students returned to find an expanded curriculum with Earth Science being added to the Science Department. Demands for third- and-fourth-year foreign language classes were met. A program was set up to meet the needs and demands of the potential dropouts. Style conscious girls wore the new designs made of rich looking leather. Style conscious boys favored the Nehru look. The dance class became a favorite extra curricular activity. Modern routines and numbers were performed by students at different functions during the year.

Many exciting talents

AFS Program Proves Excellent Course in World Understanding

AFS'er, Marybeth Kleiser, points out the location of her summer home.

Since 1951, MHS has actively participated in the AFS program by bringing students from abroad to study here. The Student Council sponsors a yearly drive to collect money for this purpose. Area businesses and school clubs as well as members of the student body generously contribute to make it a success.

During the past year, two foreign exchange students experienced the American way of life at MHS. Cathy Blondeau brought from France a touch of her native culture. While at MHS, American sports and Judo interested her. She also became involved in dramatics as an honorary Thespian and in journalism as a MISKODEED staffer and an ALL-TOLD reporter.

Mayumi Tokasuna from Shiojiri, Mishawaka's sister city in Japan, stayed with the Pooley family. She found that the customs of Americans differed greatly from those in Japan. Mayumi became acquainted with the typical life of an American teen by attending classes and by participating in all school activities. American food was a treat for her. Malts, hamburgers, and French fries, the fare of MHS teens, were among her favorites.

MHS'er Marybeth Kleiser received a taste of the German culture during her ten week stay in Germany last summer. In Thierhaupten she joined with the villagers in the daily routine of a farm community. The highlight of her trip was the attendance at a traditional German beerfest which was "an experience I'll never forget".

The AFS and foreign exchange program helped promote a better relationship between foreign countries and the United States.

Homecoming

Student ingenuity with battered flatbeds, rolls of chicken wire, cans of bent and rusted nails, and a conglomeration of tissues and napkins created a variety of floats for the 1968 Homecoming. As the special day approached, students found themselves sacrificing sleep and study hours to help construct their masterpieces. For the first time, a freshman and a sophomore class float were entered in the parade through downtown Mishawaka to Battell Park.

Those floats jugded most deserving were awarded prizes. Winning the competition were the seniors for theme, juniors for beauty, and M-Mens for originality.

The 7-6 win was our third in four years over Penn; the non-winning year was a 0-0 tie. The highlight of the evening came at halftime when senior Nancy Nelson was crowned Homecoming Queen. The band and A Cappella Choir performed during halftime ceremonies.

A student council-sponsored victory dance in the gym featured the Cambridge Five after the game.

Student Enthusiasm Signifies Rising MHS Spirit

The MHS pep band adds lively notes of enthusiasm to pep assemblies.

School spirit at MHS boomed to an all time high. At the beginning of the football season the 615 season tickets sold surpassed last year's sale of 120 season tickets.

Spirit boosting aids included the painting of a maroon "M" in the center of the gym floor. A large sign depicting a Caveman and "Tupper Field, Home of the fighting Mishawaka Cavemen" was painted on the back of the press box in the stadium.

Several organizations have also added to the rising spirit at MHS. The M-Men's club sponsored a dance after the bonfire in Merrifield Park for all MHS students. License plates with "MHS Boosters" printed on them were sold by the Booster's Club. Further building school spirit was the sale of sweatershirts embossed with MHS by the GAA.

Trying to involve more students in school spirit, student committees were formed. The pep session committee created and participated in the skits presented during pep assemblies. The sign committee eased the burden of the cheerleaders by helping them make signs and banners for the games. Signmaking was made easier with the purchase of the sign shop which contains all the materials needed for making signs.

Special cheers and youthful lungs combined to create an atmosphere of victory at all sport activities. But school spirit was not only the cheering at the games, it was the chatter in the halls, the enthusiasm in class, and the attendance at club meetings. MHS'ers were "tuned in" to school spirit in 1969.

Students and faculty members don typical farm dress and play home-made instruments to characterize the Penn "farmers." Many students and faculty members participated in original skits to liven up the pep sessions.

Tropical Isle Junior Motif for '68 Prom

After searching for a unique prom idea, MHS juniors decided on an island setting. A huge Tiki idol and mountain waterfall transformed the gym to island. Numerous palm trees were scattered throughout the gym. Tables with centerpieces of pineapple and coconuts further carried out the island atmosphere. Tiki masks and murals accented the walls.

Arriving at the Prom from the numerous punch parties and exclusive restaurants, the couples forgot the day's hectic attempts to ready the gym and prepare themselves. Couples took turns tossing coins into the pool and making wishes. Others danced to the Continental's music.

For seniors, the night's activities carried through the morning hours as they danced and splashed at the community YMCA.

BELOW—Tropical setting provided delightful atmosphere for chatting.

Christmas Ball Stirs Old Memories

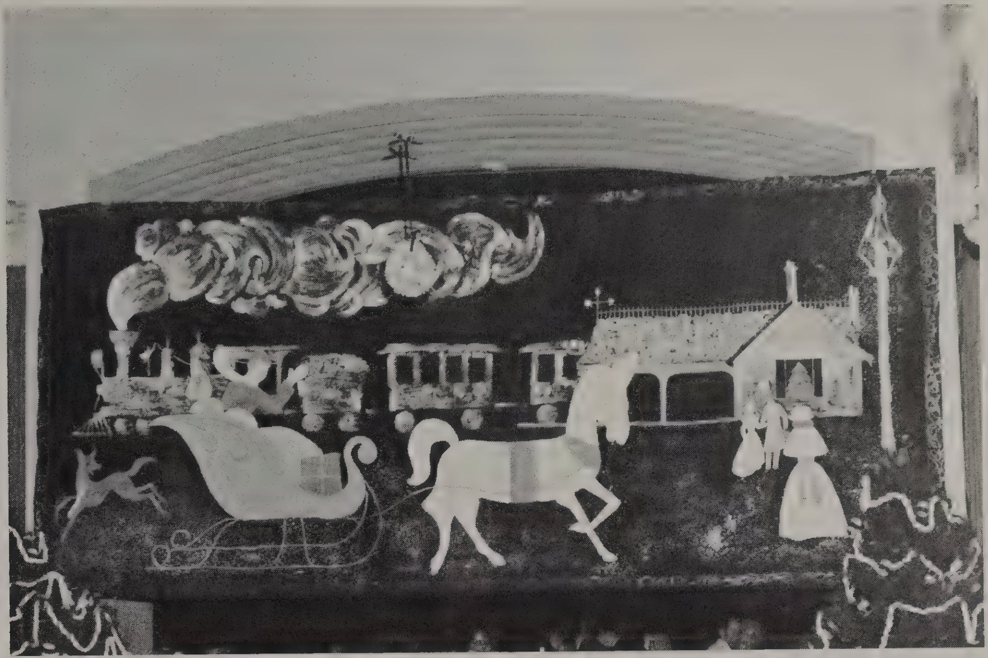
At the end of a grueling week of semester exams, MHS students unwound to the beat of the Cambridge Five. The mid-semester dance, sponsored by the Student Council, is a yearly event at MHS.

During the last week of Christmas vacation, MHS students looked forward to the Mistletoe Ball, the annual Christmas event of the Horizon Club.

Old-fashioned evergreen trees—decorated with miniature musical instruments, cream-colored balls suspended from the ceiling, and hurricane lamps centering the tables, carried out the theme of "Memories of Christmases Past."

Midnight snacks and exclusive restaurants lured couples from the Indiana Club at midnight.

This event gave MHS'ers the opportunity to meet other area high school students.



Murals of horse-drawn sleighs and steam locomotives depict scenes of Christmas long ago and the Mistletoe Ball held in the Indiana Club.

MHS'ers Greet 'Brigadoon' With Three Standing Ovations

A bit of heather and a Scottish brogue added that special touch to Mishawaka High School's first all-school musical, "Brigadoon." Eighty-three energetic students, clad in bright gowns or plaid kilts, contributed their talents to make the show a colorful and lively performance. After weeks of rehearsing, the chorus, orchestra members, dancers, and actors adapted to the atmosphere of an eighteenth century Scottish village. At the end of the two months, Mr. John Gibson, Mr. Edward Fleming, and Mr. John Long had coordinated the different divisions of the cast.

Behind the scenes, committee workers combined their efforts to supply all the needed scenery and props. The chairmen recruited groups of MHS'ers to scavenge the area for Scottish costumes and flower baskets. The stage crew spent a hectic week building vendor's boothes and papier maché rocks.

The final product of these exhausting but fun activities was a professional performance of the love story, Brigadoon.

The enchanted village of Brigadoon appeared once every hundred years in the forests of Scotland. It was here that the American Tommy Albright (Greg Zehring) fell in love with Fiona McLaren (Cassie Stringer), a native of Brigadoon.

One of the major conflicts involved Harry Beaton (John Gautier), a bitter young man who endangered the lives of the villagers by trying to escape the curse of the mysterious place.

The consequences of his death enabled the miracle to continue.

Mr. Louis Brockie, bag piper, leads the funeral march of Harry Beaton.

Senior Steve Brainard stoops to pick up the greeting cards that have been deposited by MHS students in the Hi-Y mail box. The cards were delivered to sponsor rooms each morning during the Christmas season.

Promoting the spirit of the Christmas season, the A Capella choir sings hymns and old familiar carols in the halls.

The singing is traditional at MHS and brings joy to students and faculty as the singers stroll in the halls.

MHS Spurs Community Spirit Through Projects

Soft strains of organ music provided a cathedral-like, solemn atmosphere for the traditional Christmas Vesper service. Twelve living pictures portrayed the Christmas story while the choir sang familiar hymns to accompany each one. The Vesper Service under the direction of Miss Rosa Weikel was sponsored by the P.T.A. The service was presented for the community in two performances to help promote the spirit of Christmas.

Keeping with the tradition, the MHS Hi-Y and Y-Teen members co-sponsored and co-organized the Share project. The purpose of the project was to collect canned goods and money to distribute to the needy families in the area.

Trimming the Christmas tree in the main hall and providing mail service were two activities performed by the Hi-Y. A mail box was set up in the main hall for the deposit of the cards. The cards stamped with four T.B. seals were delivered each morning to the students in their sponsor rooms.

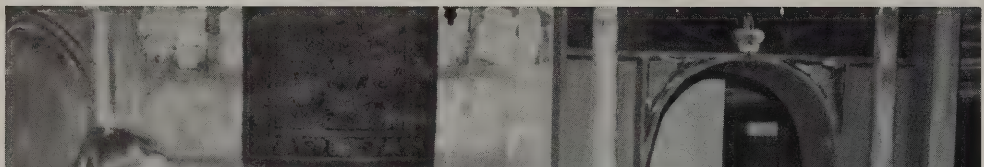
"Dracula" Third Performance Scores MHS First



The Count Dracula gasps his last breath of life as Lucy's fiancee, Johnathan Harker, drives the iron stake through his heart, ending the terror in England.

Tradition was broken at MHS when the Senior Class play, "Dracula," was presented a third time. Standing ovations were given the actors for their excellent performance all three nights.

A gothic stone mansion of Nineteenth Century set the stage for the modern play. The effective use of organ music, played by Mr. John Long, provided a suspenseful and eerie atmosphere throughout the auditorium. Excellently produced sound effects added to the mysterious climate of the performance.

The play takes place in the early nineteenth century. Professor Seward (Art Lester) has sent for Dr. Abraham Van Helsing (Max Sala) to diagnose a strange illness that has weakened his daughter, Lucy (Jill Falkenau). Dr. Van Helsing suspected that Lucy was the victim of the vampire Dracula (Lew Woodward). He informed Seward and John Harker (John Gautier), Lucy's fiancee, of his suspicions and told them that in order to save Lucy's life Dracula must be killed. The search for the Count began. Finding him in his grave, John drives a stake through his heart ending the terror in England.

Juniors Practice Asian Accents in 'Teahouse'

A humorous look at post World War II days was the subject of the Junior Class play as the young dramatists made their debut in "Teahouse of the August Moon."

The comedy took place in Tobiki where chaos broke out when an American occupation unit moved in to "enlighten" the islanders with Western world culture. Constantly making a blunder of things, Captain Fisby (Keith Hoffman) convinced Colonel Purdy (Jim Lemler) that he was insane. Purdy sent a psychiatrist to secretly examine Fisby, but his plan backfired when the doctor became affected with the Okinawan way of life. Fisby gave poor Purdy a terrific headache when he built a teahouse instead of the official pentagon-shaped schoolhouse and added a geisha girl (Andrea DeVliegher)!

Sakini (Mark Greenwood) narrated and played the philosophical interpreter to the military occupation forces. His greatest pastime was disillusioning Colonel Wainwright III about the teahouse.

The Oriental play written by John Patrick had a sudden solution to prevent the destruction of the teahouse by Colonel Wainwright.

Advisory Committee Improves Student—Administration Relations

"This meeting will now come to order." With this familiar phrase and the sharp blow of the gavel, the Student Council began another successful year at Mishawaka High School under the able leadership of officers Lewis Woodward, president; Dave Hardisty, vice-president; Cassie Stringer, secretary; and Mark Hoffman, treasurer.

The Student Council linked the students to the Administration by the formation of an Advisory Committee to discuss the ideas and plans of the council.

Again this year, they sponsored the two main social events of the school year, the Homecoming and Mid-Semester Dances. During the year, representatives promoted and sold Miskodeeds in their sponsor rooms. The Student Council also helped the American Field Service Program by financially aiding foreign exchange students in coming to our country. Two flags, honoring Catherine Blondeau of France and Mayumi Takasuna of Japan, were purchased by the Council and flown each day in front of the school. A Pep Session Committee, headed by John Gautier, was organized to help promote school spirit.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. David Robertson and Mr. Lloyd Wayne, this organization brought the Purdue Glee Club to our school in March and promoted two bus trips during the year. The student body attended the annual Student-Faculty basketball game which was held after school instead of in the evening as in other years.

With the spring came Juniors seeking the offices of Student Council and responsibility of leading the school next year. An all-school election was held to pick the officers.

Service Clubs

White Caps-White Coats, under the supervision of Mrs. Gladys Conant, made dressings for the Cancer Society and performed various services on a volunteer basis. They helped in all school testing programs handled by the nurse's office.

The Red Cross had a paperback book drive. The proceeds were sent to a veterans' hospital.

A November induction initiated a year full of activities for the members of Future Teachers of America. For their service project, the club honored the MHS teachers during "Dear Teachers Week." The club sold large, round Cavemen pins to boost school spirit and to raise money.

The Book Guild members offered their services to the elderly of Mishawaka. They made favors and read to the residents of the Golden Age Manor. They added a festive touch to the school library with a club bulletin board.

Members of the White Caps-White Coats aided Mrs. Conant in the sophomore hearing tests taken in February.

Language Clubs Revive Past at Mardi Gras and Saturnalia

Spanish Club officers Mary Nicolini and Chris Ipe conduct a meeting.

Activities for the Latin Club reflected the customs of the ancient empire to the modern student angle. In late November the toga-clad members delved into the archives and feasted at the Saturnalia. In spring the club had another banquet to celebrate the founding of Rome 2,722 years ago. Members of Latin Club still clung to the ghosts of days gone by.

Spanish Club started out the school year with an organizational meeting under the newly elected officers. Plans and appointments for the production of its own movie constituted several of the club's meetings. The club viewed many of club sponsor's, Miss June Johnston, slides of Spain. The annual picnic held May 1, ended the activities for the year.

German Club varied the year with social events and service projects. Most efforts were directed toward an AFS showcase. Terri Schiffer, club president, was in charge of the display of MHS's past and present foreign exchange students. German Club members raised funds with a car wash in the spring.

French Club's Mardi Gras featured a king and queen. Held on February 18, the potluck supper was set in a New Orleans street. The members dressed in original costume and revived the spirit of Mardi Gras for MHS.

German Club Treasurer Rosanna Lamb, President Terry Schiffer, and Secretary Cathy Blondeau plan their spring car wash, only one of their many projects.

Dollars to All MHS Vocational Club Treasuries

Membership in the Art Club, sponsored by Miss Rosa Wiekel, reached fifty-five this year. Many members participated in the money-making projects—a combination baked goods and art sales at the Farmer's Market.

Throughout the year, members of the Craftsmen Club met bi-monthly to use the machinery and tools for work other than their class credit requirement. Led by Mr. Milton Ross, the boys showed considerable dexterity in the projects they undertook. Carl Kempf, president; John Watkins, vice-president; and Art Lester, secretary-treasurer; were student leaders of the group.

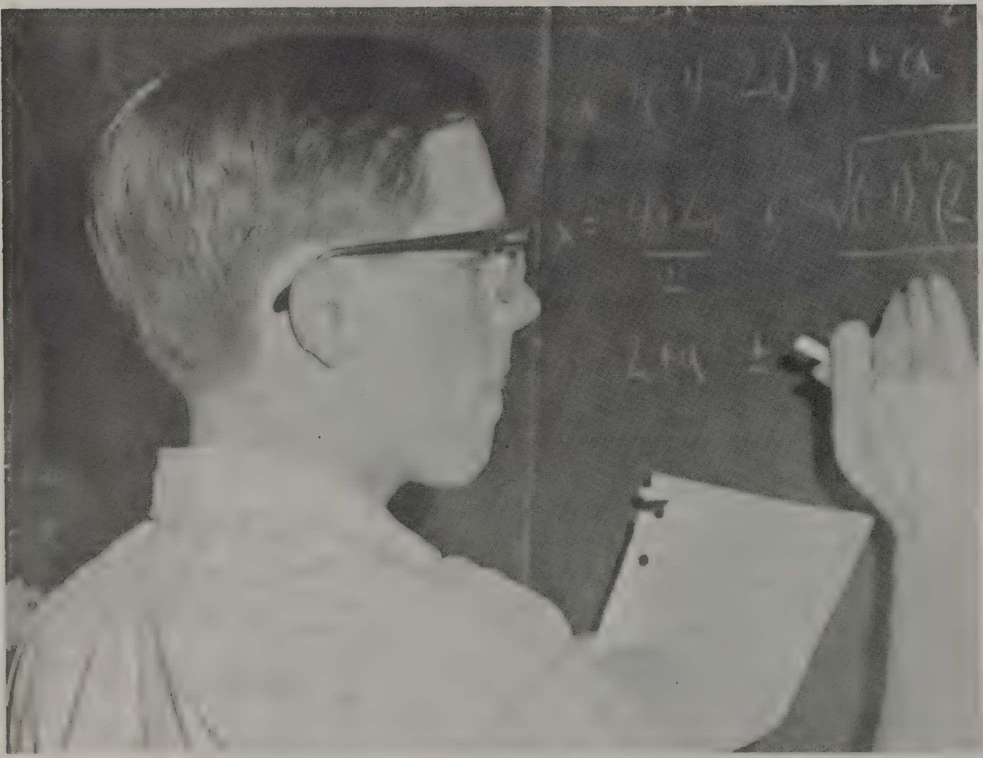
Home Ec Club members demonstrated throughout the year their homemaking talents by pulling taffy and making fudge during 8th hour. During lunch hours before the Christmas season, they sold mistletoe.

The Commercial Club offered instruction in local business processes and performed many services. A newspaper containing news of coming events, accomplishments, and features was published once a month by the members.

Art Club Officers Dawn Smith, treasurer; Andrea DeViegher, vice- president; Mary Kobold, president; and Cyndee Holland, secretary; examine Cyndee's art design project.

Publications photographers formed the core of the Photography Club. Much of the Club's activities were involved in chemistry as the members tried their luck at developing, printing, and fixing their film.

Members of International Relations Club planned activities for the school year in groups. They then shared ideas and decided upon the best one for the club.



Science Club

Science Club was one of the most active clubs at MHS. They sold cookies in order to purchase a telescope for which they had ground their own lens. A Notre Dame professor and a representative from Bell Telephone presented lectures on mosquitoes and the laser. On March third, Science Club viewed "Physics and Painting" a movie rented from the National Gallery of Art.

Traveling away from school the Math Club visited the Notre Dame Computer facilities. They concluded the field trip with sessions on computer language, flow charting, and programming.

Members of the International Relations Club assigned themselves to countries and took part in United Nations-type debates. These discussions preceded a planned mock United Nations Assembly with Marian and Penn High Schools.

New Madrigal Singers Entertain Area With Sentimental Ballads

The Madrigal Singers were a colorful addition to the choir this year. Members of this group which was organized by Mr. John Long, the choir director, were chosen from the A Capella Choir. The group gave four Christmas appearances in the city, one of which was live on the Afternoon Show of WSBT-TV. The authentic Gothic costumes were made by the members themselves.

Besides singing during the halftime activities of Homecoming and participating in the annual Christmas Vespers program, the A Capella Choir made approximately twenty other performances in the area. Members of the Chamber Singers, another select group of the choir, sang for service clubs and other social, business, and educational groups.

In order to raise money, the choir sold holly and evergreens to friends and neighbors a few weeks before Christmas. They also made a record again this year with orders totaling three hundred.

In the spring the choir joined with the band and the orchestra to present the May Festival which brought another busy year to a close.

Ten new members were inducted into Music Honor Society this year. A prerequisite to this honor is membership in one of the school's music groups. Other requirements are auditioning and passing a written examination on musical terms as well as on the society's constitution.

Individuals

Cathy Riederer confers with Mr. Long on a difficult section of her music during fifth hour orchestra.

Playing for the first school musical provided the greatest challenge this year for the eighty-three members of the Mishawaka High School Concert Orchestra. Students practiced diligently for two months in order to master the difficult musical arrangements for Brigadoon.

The year's agenda also included performing for the class plays, the Christmas Vesper Service, Baccalaureate and Commencement. A concert presented to the Community in December featured selections from West Side Story.

Individual orchestra members excelled at area and at state contests. In October several musicians earned first chairs in the North Central Orchestra. On February 15, those members who won a first place in the District Contest traveled to Indianapolis for the State Finals. The May Festival highlighted seniors Emily Germano, celloist; Tedd Waggoner, trumpeter; and Cathy Riederer, flutist.

at Half-time

The two drum majors, Senior Tom Kobb and Junior John Schroeder, led the eighty-eight piece band and four honor guards through a successful season. Giving up the last week of summer vacation, band members came to school to practice and prepare for the football games. They reviewed the fundamentals of marching under the direction of Mr. Walter Bowers and Mr. Robert Needham.

The Pom-pom and Twirler Corps was an added attraction to the band's weekly performances. The girls worked hard to perfect their routines. A banquet at Garrett's, sponsored by the Uniroyal Corporation of Mishawaka, ended the 1968 marching season.

On January 16, the Concert Band held its annual Winter Concert. A brass sextet and a saxophone quartet were special attractions. The music scores included such popular songs as the themes from Man of La Mancha and Mission Impossible.

Band officers were Tedd Waggoner, president; Tom Kobb, vice-president; and Cathy Riederer, secretary.

Patchwork Rug Brightens Room; Modern Book Breaks Tradition

Senior Miskodeed Editors held carwashes, bake sales, and other money making projects last summer to provide the several colored pictures in this book. Editor-in-chief Jill Falkenau, along with three other students, even joined the Mini Olympics, sponsored by Max Adler's, to earn money. To end the summer with more work, Misko editors redecorated the room that was to be their "second home." A handmade, patchwork carpet filled the room with color and comfort.

To promote the sale of Miskodeeds, the Senior and Junior staffs gave a skit for the student body. The skit brought out information concerning the new price, size, and style of this year's book. A skit was also presented for the P.T.A. in March.

After struggling long and hard to meet each deadline, the Miskodeed staff waited impatiently for the annual Autograph Party where the '69 yearbooks would be distributed.

Mid-semester changes in the Alltold staff brought back the old position of Page One Editor and the Editor-in-chief became supervisor for all four pages. January also brought a job switch between the Page Three Editor and MHS editor for the South Bend Tribune's Youth Page.

Two new columns were added in '69. Becky Semenak's movie column took a look at the current movie scene. Page Four Editor Robert Connon offered his unbiased view of MHS sports in his weekly "Connon's Comments".

Alltold staff members joined the Miskodeed staff in attending a Journalism Day at the Notre Dame Center for Continuing Education. Junior staffers also attended.

A RECEPTION honored the new members of NHS and their parents.

Memberships

Anxious seniors sat on the edge of their seats as a hush spread over the auditorium, and National Honor Society President David Bent read the names of the inductees. With tears of joy and excitement they assembled in the lobby, marched to the front of the auditorium and recited the oath of membership.

After signing the membership book and receiving their pins and certificates, they took their seats and listened to an inspiring talk by Reverend Donald Verhagen. In March both juniors and seniors were inducted.

Mr. Merle Blue was the sponsor of the N.H.S. and arranged the tutoring service provided by the members. Students were chosen for N.H.S. membership by the faculty on the basis of leadership, scholarship, service, and character.

Quill and Scroll, under Miss Janet Eberle, is an honor society for those students participating in and excelling in publications. Members must have been on either the Miskodeed or Alltold staff for at least one year.

Quill and Scroll members Bob Connon, Cyndee Holland, and Leslie Creakbaum prepare Valentine carnations sold by the Alltold. More than two hundred flowers were sold.

John Gibson Re-activates Troupe 496

Under a new sponsor, Mr. John Gibson, Troup 496 of the National Thespian Society had a very busy and fun-filled school year. On Halloween, they gave a short skit at the Northern Indiana Children's Hospital. On January 14, new members were inducted and initiated. The induction ceremony consisted of impressive talks on theater. This followed a pot-luck supper provided by the inductees. For the informal initiation, new members were presented with unusual problems and made to provide a solution. The following day each had to wink three times and smile twice each time they saw an old member or Mr. Gibson.

In the spring, Juniors who had worked on the Junior Class play were formally inducted and initiated.

Board Members Advise Discreet Expenditures

Representatives of faculty and student-elected class members composed the Board of Control, the central financial board of the school. Discreet expenditures and careful budgeting by the Board kept every club and activity financially sound.

While Board of Control is another arm of student government, the MHS History Club was established solely for those students with a common interest in history. Although membership in the Club was small this year, its purpose—that of enabling students who want to be more aware of both past and current events—was accomplished.

The MHS History Club completely revamped itself. Enterprising members rewrote the club constitution eliminating the positions of chaplain and club historian and inserting more up-to-date language.

Marsha Pooley appeared before the History Club and presented a talk which emphasized the new modern Japan.

History Club president Tom Tkach relates facts from a book on the Revolutionary War to Treasurer Rick Sarkisian, Secretary Cyndee Holland, and Vice-President, John Hesch.

Crew Builds Two-Level Stage; Teens Aid Others With Share

The seven-member Y-Teen cabinet met often to plan the meetings and activities for the rest of the group. They also appointed committees to be in charge of such things as the homecoming float, "Share," The Easter Service, and a dance in the spring. Two members of the cabinet, Terry Ryno and Marsha Palmer, attended a week-long Y-Teen Summer Conference in Syracuse, Indiana, and others attended the Mid-Winter Conference in February.

Members of the Hi-Y had the privilege of escorting the Homecoming attendants again this year. They also co-operated with Y-Teens on the Share Project and the spring dance. As in other years, Hi-Y boys provided the students with a Christmas tree in the main hall and an efficient mail service for Christmas cards.

The Ushers Club, under Mr. Floyd Zeiger, assisted at the class plays, orchestra and band concerts, and Brigadoon. Here the ushers could be seen in their maroon jackets which were new last year. Among their duties were taking tickets, distributing programs, and aiding persons in finding their seats.

Members of the Stage Crew with the help of their sponsor, Mr. Edward Fleming, had the responsibility of constructing a platform for the Senior Class Play, Dracula, and operated the lights, curtains, and sound effects. These boys also arranged the stage for concerts and assemblies throughout the school year.

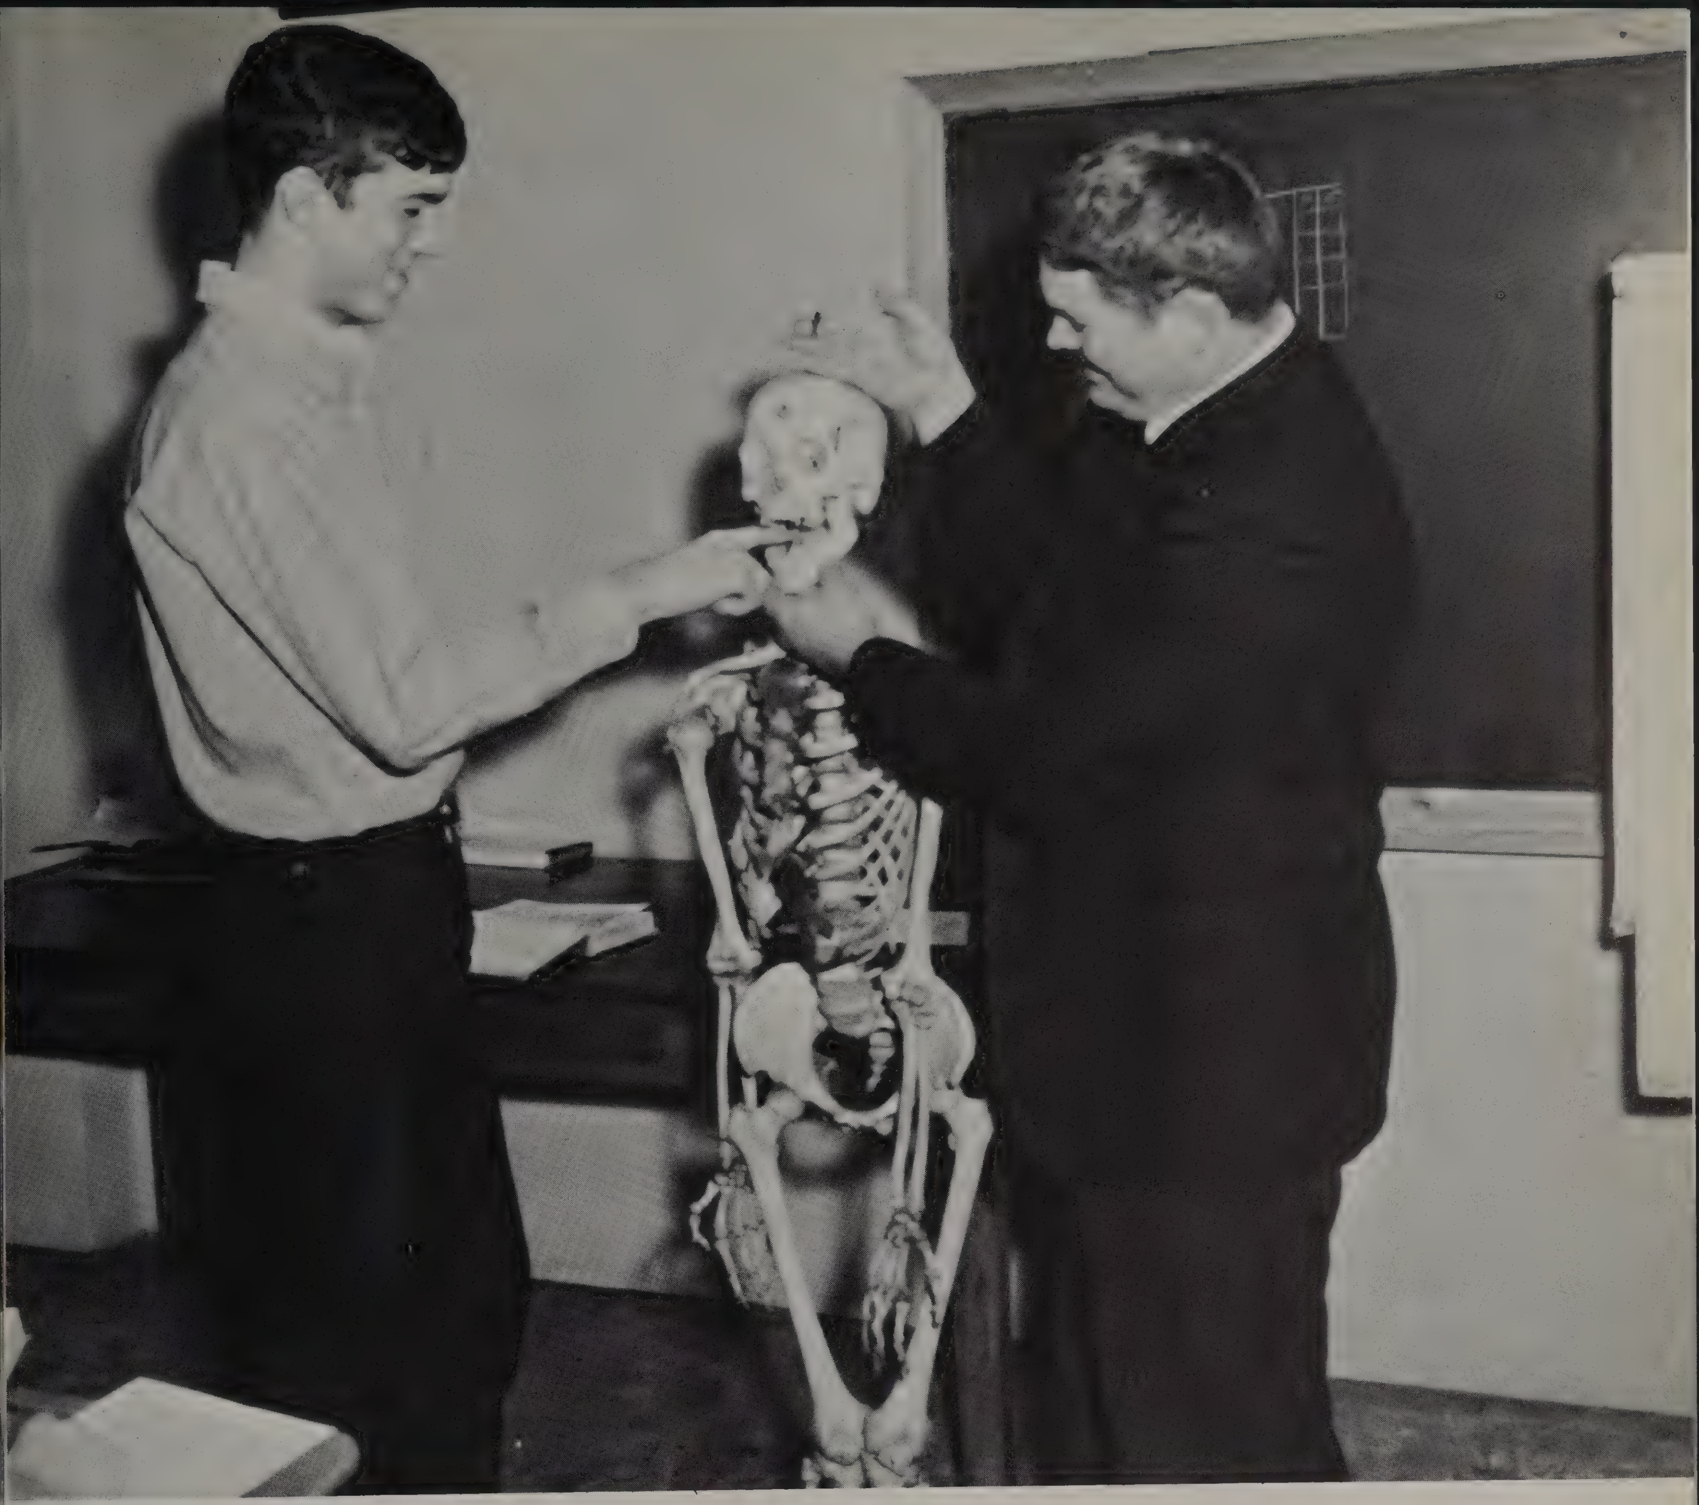
Academic

Studying, learning, and planning for the future monopolized most of the students' days.
MHS's academic program gave each student the opportunity to select courses he desired.
Earth science and third-and fourth-year language classes were available to the students' schedules in 1969.
Students returned to a library card system which allowed more to use the resource center.



Mr. Bruce Chamberlain's debate class watches as Sony representatives demonstrate a video-tape machine, similar to those used for television's "instant replays."

Up-to-date

New English textbooks provided students with a fresh approach to improving language skills. Along with the new approach to grammar, freshmen also learned the symbolism in David Copperfield. In addition to their weekly word study lessons, sophomores concentrated on the study of great American writers. For the first time, juniors wrote a research paper for their English teachers. Seniors wound up their last year with the traditional 1000 vocabulary cards and Hamlet. All English lessons were supplemented with up-to-date movies, including evaluations on classic literary works.

Outside of English classes, students learned to better express themselves in speech, perfected dialogues in dramatic class, and wrote newscasts in journalism. The modern reading lab provided help in bettering our reading skills. A first this year was the presentation of Tom Jones by Mr. John Gibson's dramatic classes.

In every phase of the English Department, MHS students became more aware of the need to improve their skills in communication.

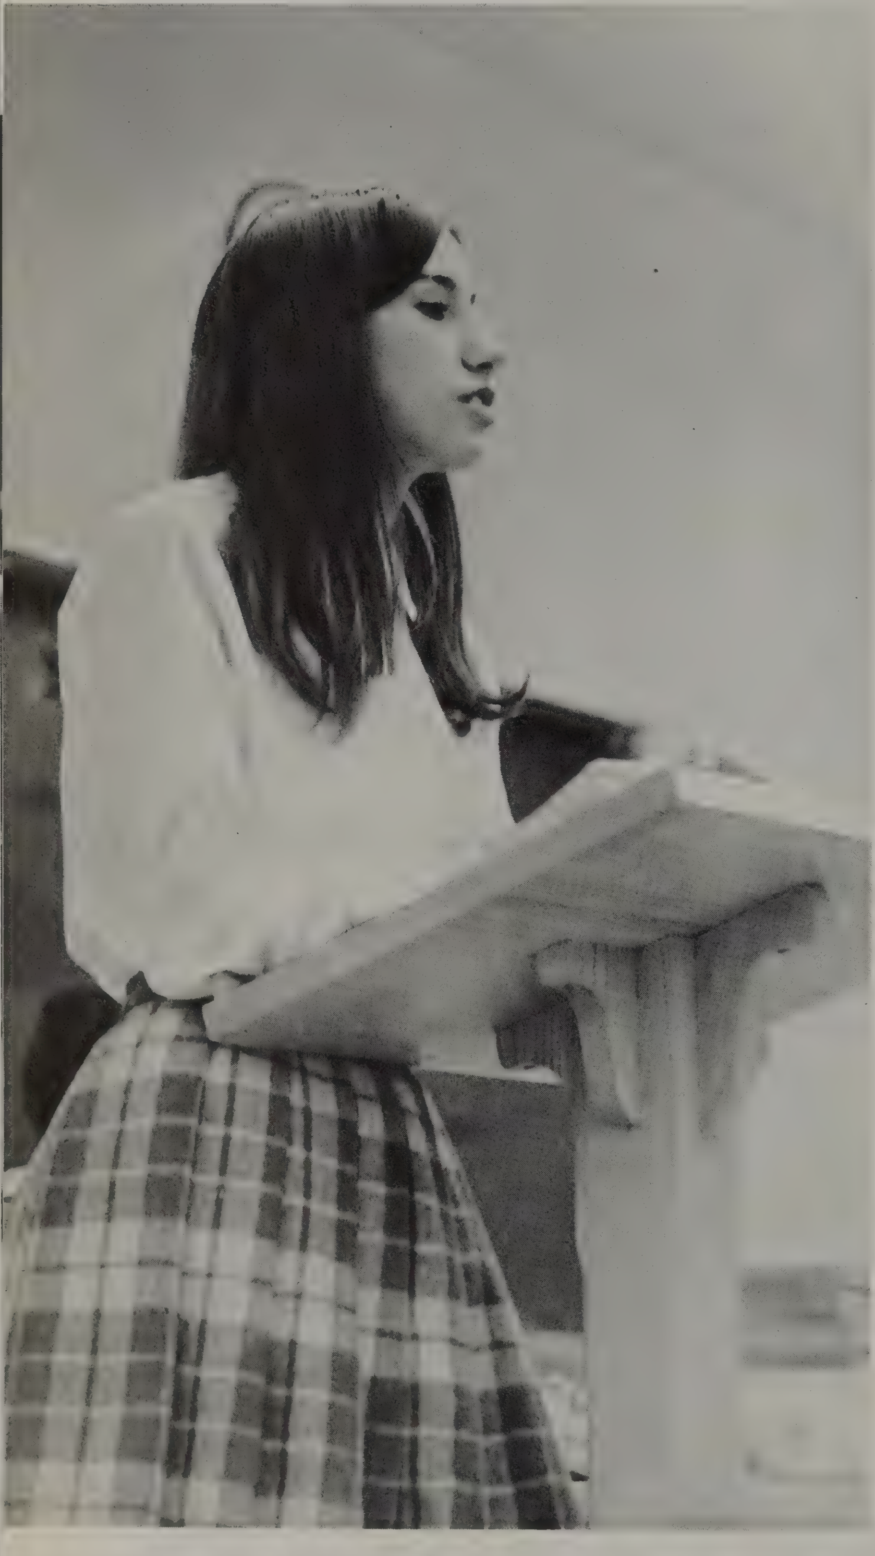
Juniors Cyndee Holland and John Hesch use the card catalogue and Reader's Guide in researching for their source themes. This was the first year Juniors were required to write a detailed research paper.

Textbooks and Films Make English Enjoyable

In the well-equipped reading laboratory, students work at the pacers to increase their reading speed and comprehension. All students, especially those going on to college, were urged to take this worthwhile course.

Thoroughly exhausted after finishing her English research paper, Senior Barb Kalil rests her head.

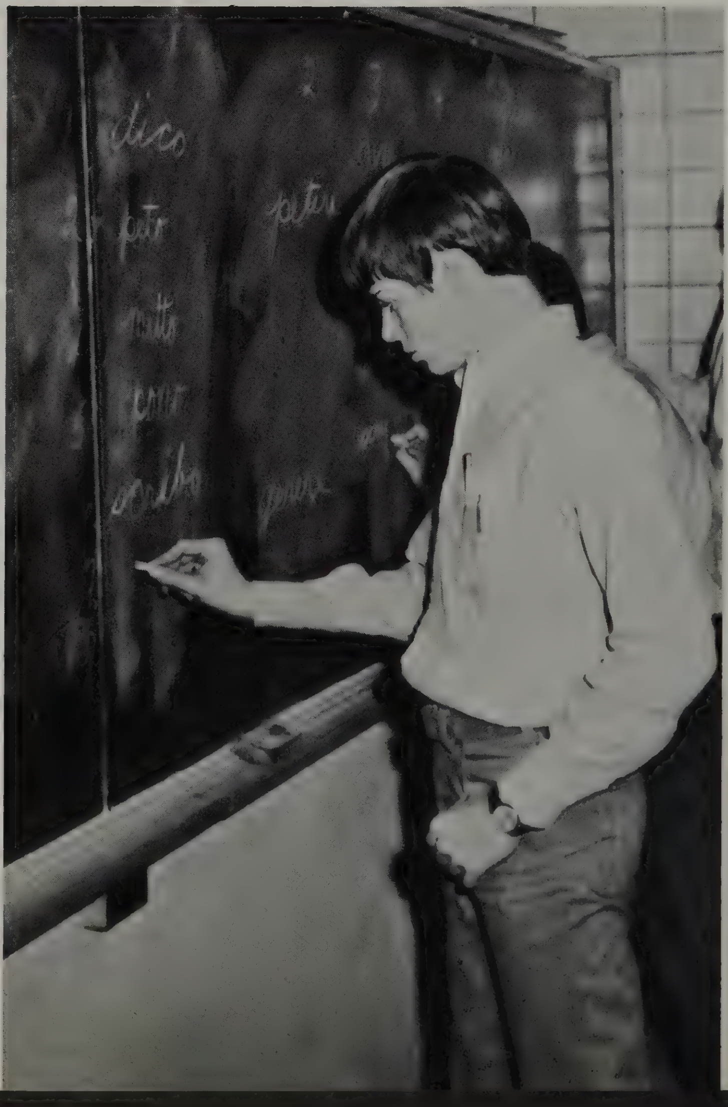
In her demonstration speech, Janet Nagy, shows her fellow speech students how to make a tasty shake.



Junior Mary Nicolini utilizes her Spanish vocabulary to give a speech in her third-year Spanish class.

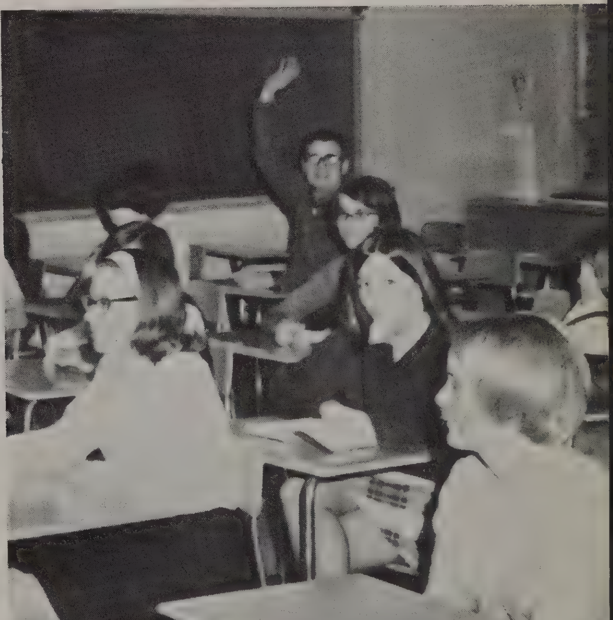
A bit unsure of the spelling of some unfamiliar Latin words are these students in Miss Mary Hess' first-year Latin class.

Taking time out for a pre-Christmas party, Spanish students forget about conjunctions for a few minutes.



Miss June Johnston watches the reactions of her advanced students as they converse in Spanish.

Language Students Spend Long Hours Memorizing Expressions



In first-year French, students are confused by the numerous verb forms.

While the goal of many MHS language students was to become fluent in a foreign tongue, this was not the case with the Latin students. In first and second-year Latin, students gained an understanding of sentence structure while the more advanced students studied Cicero's orations and other Roman classics. All Latin classes, however, found that they gained a better understanding of their own language through the study of Latin.

Much time was spent by beginning French students pronouncing the new and unusual sounds found in the French language. The French students, through the help of our French AFS student, Cathy Blondeau, also learned various things about the French way of life.

Translation, sentence composition and basic conversation were important parts of the Spanish curriculum. The advanced Spanish students composed speeches and presented them to the class. The desire to build their foreign vocabulary inspired students to memorize the many idioms of the Spanish language.

Most of Mrs. Marcia Liggett's German classes met in the language lab this year due to the increase in foreign language students. Reading about famous German poets and writers occupied some of the "Deutsch" students' time. Another first this year was the fourth-year German course that was offered. The need to communicate with all people became even more evident this year in the MHS language classes.

Sociology students John Gautier and Kathy McGann participate in a "Going Steady" discussion with PTA members.

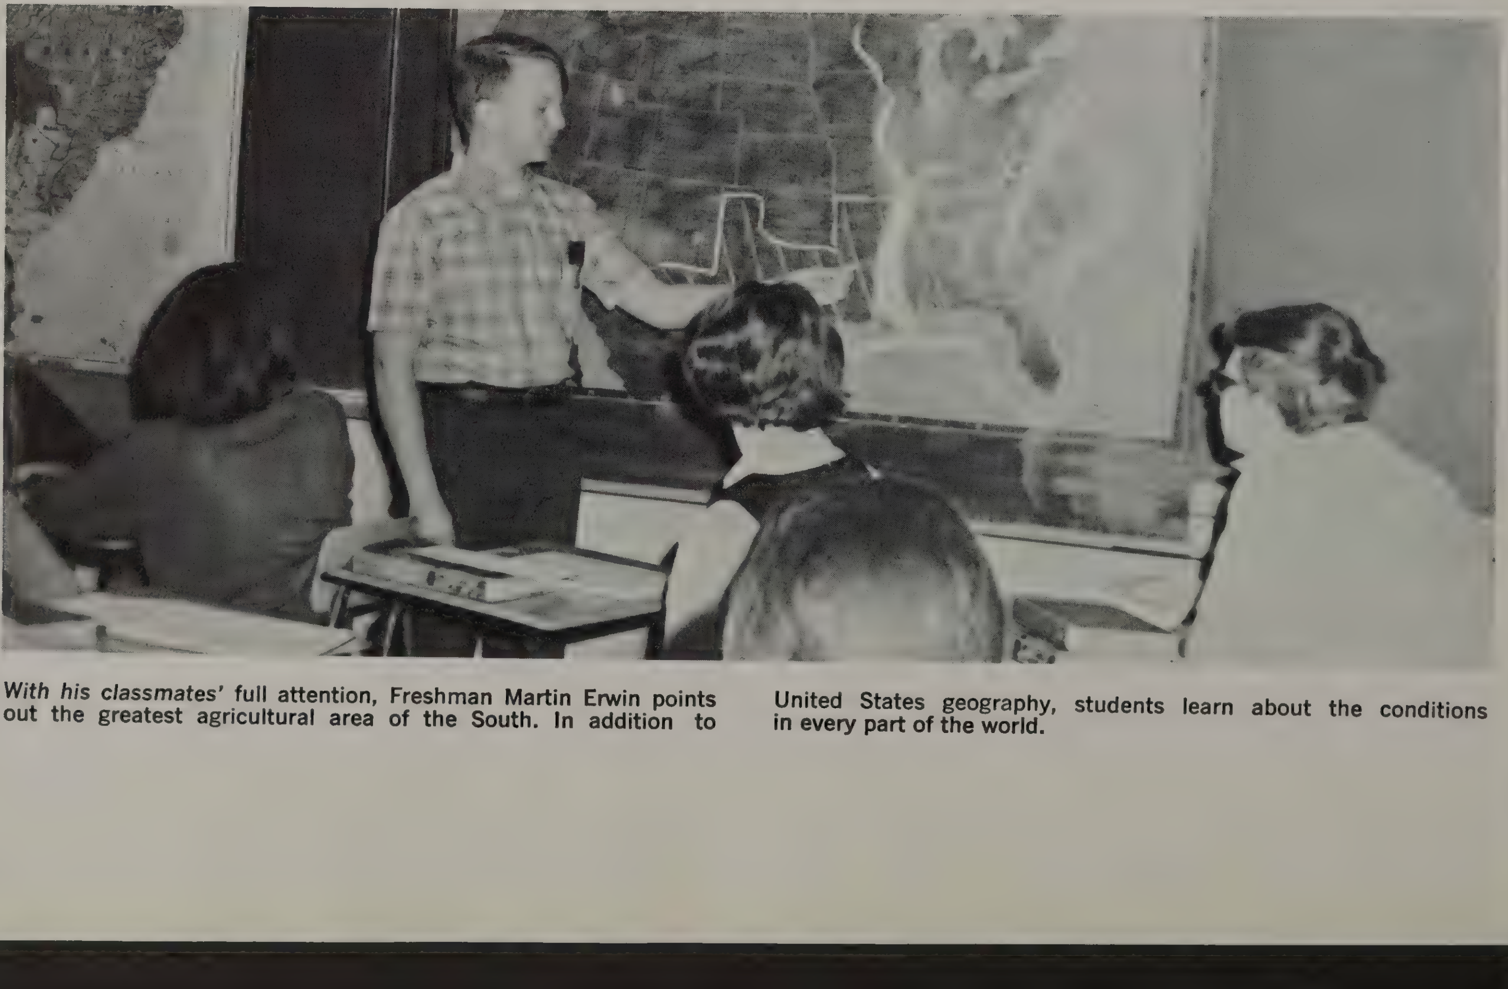
Presidential Election Highlights Social Studies



With his classmates' full attention, Freshman Martin Erwin points out the greatest agricultural area of the South. In addition to United States geography, students learn about the conditions in every part of the world.

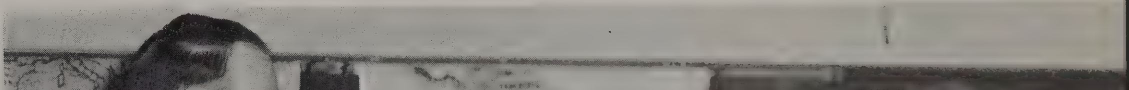
"Was it Teddy or Franklin Roosevelt who was the Roughrider?" asks United States History student Barb Coleman.

Steve Brainerd places a Nixon hat on Irene Olszewski after it was apparent on November 6 that he had won the election.

Discussions

MHS social studies students looked at the "establishment" with a fresh approach. Apprentice-sociologists examined the social structure of man. Students in Mr. Richard Bottorff's sociology classes read about current racial crisis. Economics classes studied the "production, exchange, and consumption" of goods. Economics students saw films on today's population explosion and communism and learned economics is more than buying and selling. The one class of International Relations students found that there are no easy answers for such pressing issues as the Middle East.

All social studies classes spent a week examining the '68 presidential election. Underclassmen took citizenship and U. S. history to learn more about their national heritage. World history students examined all of mankind from prehistoric times.



In geography, students found it imperative to understand the make-up of all the continents. Mr. William Niemann points out Antarctica.

Complicated Theorems Perplex Mathematicians

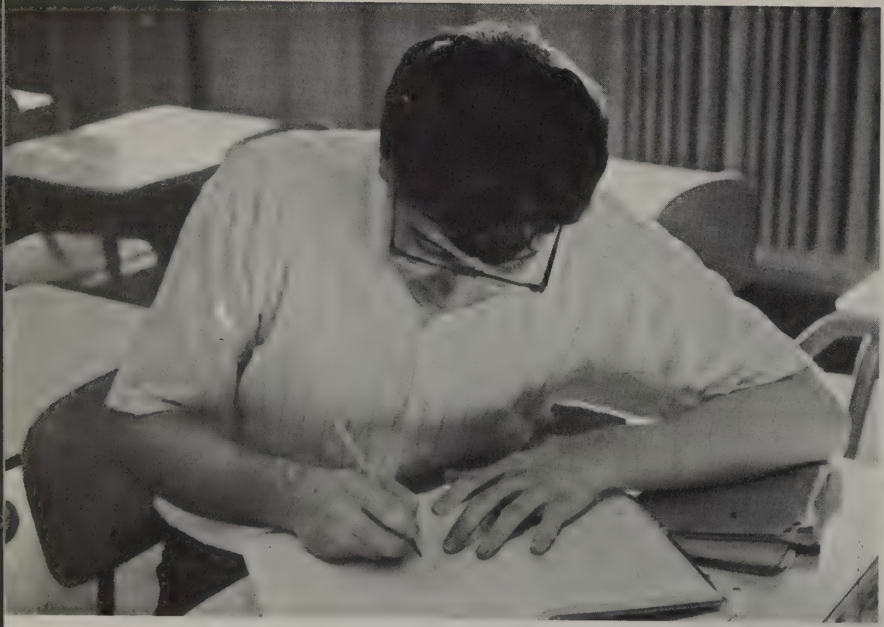
After logically considering the possible solutions to a difficult geometry proof, alert students attempt to catch the teacher's attention to verify their answers.

In MHS math classes, students learned that mathematics has become an essential part of education. Trade math students studied phases of math that are important to everyday living. A new facet in the math department was a class of math and English combined to help students prepare for a vocation after high school.

First-year algebra students toiled over basic theories of proof, factoring, and linear equations while geometry students used theorems and corollaries.

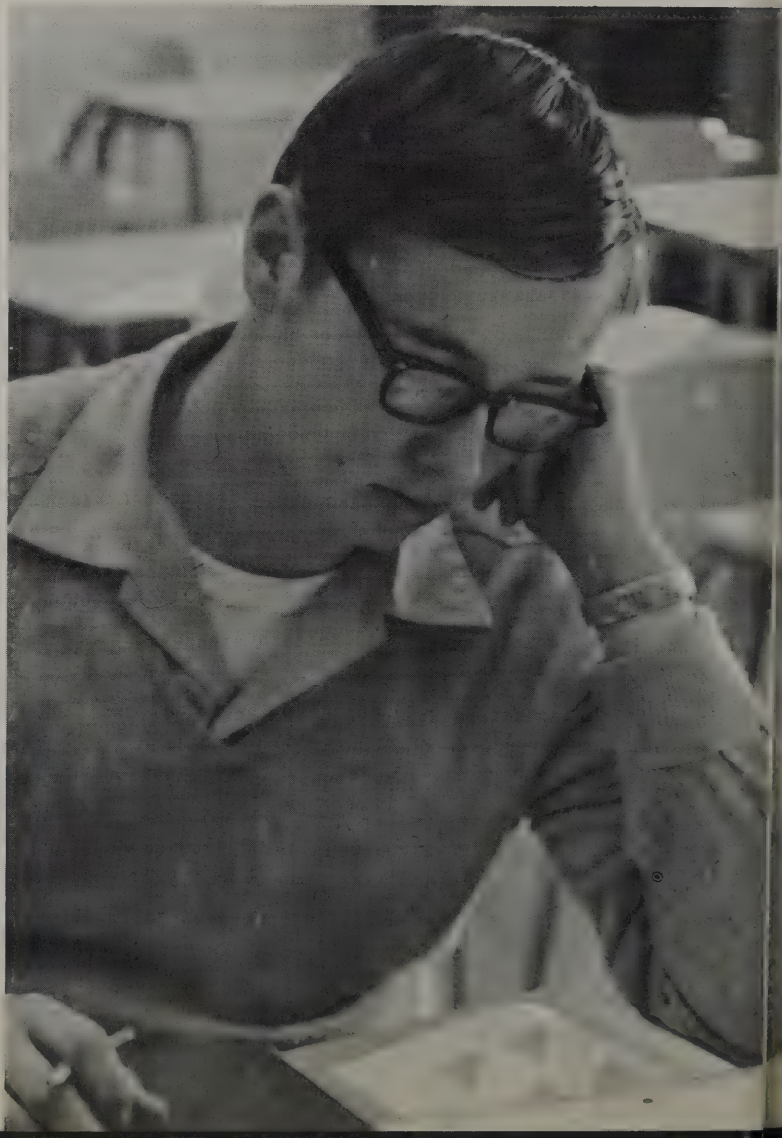
Sets, factoring, and polynominals were reviewed by the more advanced Algebra III and IV students. They also studied functions, roots, and logarithms.

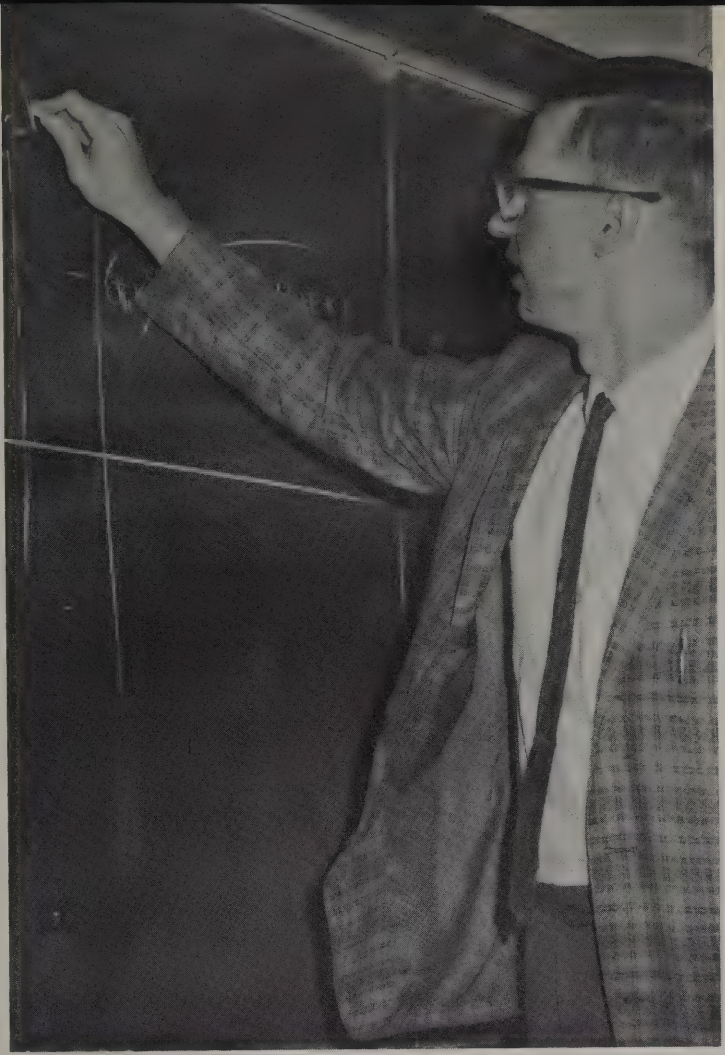
While underclassmen struggled through basic math, two classes of senior math students were stymied by analytic geometry and trigonometry. All MHS math students faced new challenges this year.



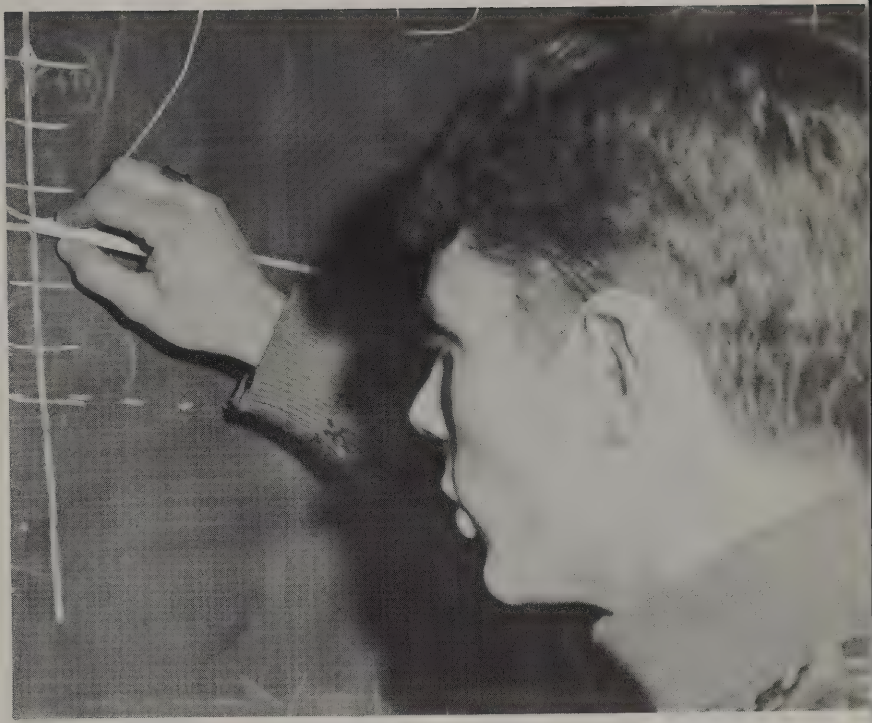
Junior Paul Moore decides that his second-year Algebra homework can be the cause of some bad headaches.

Junior Jim Schmidt learns that determining the tangent and cosine of an angle requires pages of figuring.

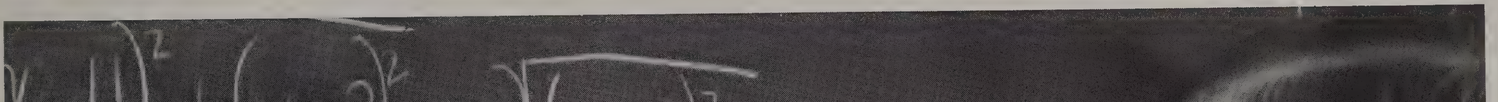




Math teacher Mr. Augie Baetsle uses the blackboard to better explain a difficult graph to his algebra class.



Rick Sharky draws a parabola to illustrate a quadratic equation. Senior Math students also studied trigonometry.



In Senior Math Dan Overman works out a distance problem using the correct formula. Working it on the board allows his classmates to see what steps, if any, they missed.

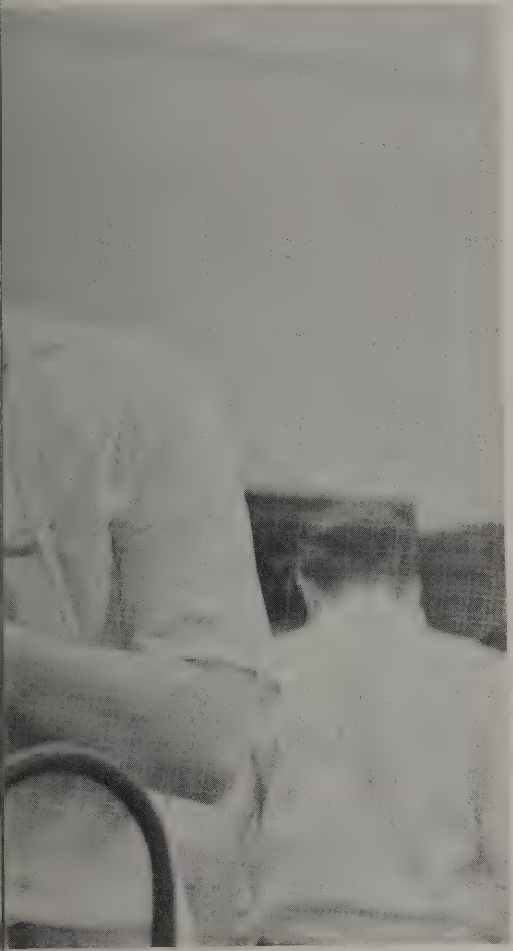
Mishawaka Expands Science

Senior Max Sala checks his ignition tube as he waits for results.

With mixed emotions, Oletha Derrickson and Richard Jones disect frogs.

Rushing to complete their experiment on time, Juniors Tom Whitlock and Rick Needham measure out the correct amount of sulphuric acid.

Department by Adding New Earth Science Course

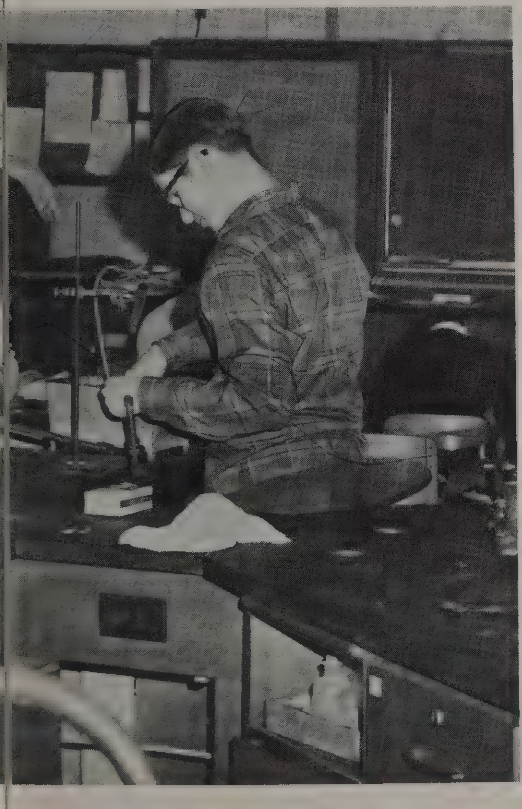


An addition to the science department this year was a brand new course, earth science. Mr. William Carmichael taught this new class which attracted a large number of students. Rock formations and minerals were just a couple of the topics that were discussed.

As in all past years, biology students, especially females, waited apprehensively for the day they dissected frogs. Besides this, they busied themselves learning more about plants, crayfish, and heredity.

Chemistry offered challenges to interested MHS students. Between lectures and problem solving, young chemists worked on perfecting experiments. Memorizing also played a part in this course as students were required to know various energy shells and quantum numbers.

Even more advanced and complicated was the curriculum in physics. Mr. James Braunsdorf often amused his physics students with his various "toys." All was not fun, though, as young physicists completed experiments using such instruments as Geiger counters and oscilloscopes.

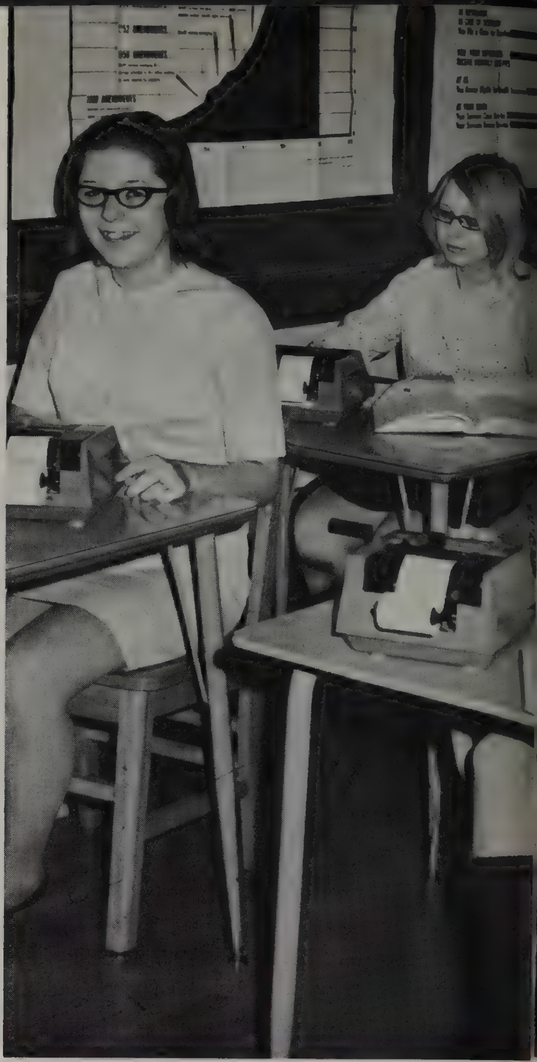


Dale Fogle learns that keeping things in order is also a part of a lab course.

Trying to determine the circumference of the earth, students in the new earth science course spend time outdoors using Eratasthene's principle.

"Oh, I did it again!" exclaims Penny Martens as she makes an error in her second-year typing class.

First-year bookkeeping students keep busy in class by using their portable adding machines.



Personal typing students practice their daily drills in an effort to perfect their touch and rhythm. Students in this course found it helped them in their other classes.

Salesmanship,

Business students were made more aware of the growing need for competent employees in the competitive world. To help prepare themselves for later positions, bookkeeping students recorded simple business transactions and studied some accounting. Others, in business law, learned the requirements for legal requirements for legal contracts. The added part of the MHS Business Department this year was a new course in salesmanship taught by Mr. James Miller. This course provided a better understanding of the consumers of today.

Beginning typists practiced daily hoping to increase their speed and accuracy. Others on the clerical course took shorthand and later went on to transcription. Advanced students in office practice were given the opportunity to use dictaphones and mimeographing machines.

A local businessman came and explained what job interviews can be like. Tips such as these helped prepare MHS students for their place in the modern business world.

Senior Barb Lidolph spends time at the Yeager Estates doing office work. Girls on a clerical course were given the opportunity to get practical experience.

A New Business Course, Builds Executives

Mr. Donald Crawford, Treasurer of the Mishawaka Federal Savings and Loans Association, gives office practice student Sandra Kleinfeldt an example of what a job interview can be like.

Oil, Canvas, Clay, Wood Soon Become

Sophomore Debbie Leslie rolls out her clay as she constructs a slab piece.

Lela Sneed applies glaze to her leather-hard clay project.

Art Objects

Newcomers to the art department were required to take design and color. Beginning artists in this course learned fundamentals.

Workers in ceramics experimented with the coil method, clay molds, and the potter's wheel. Students tried out various decoration types on their pots and learned simplicity is often the best bet.

Commercial art prepared students for possible jobs in advertising. Lettering with pen and ink was mastered during the first weeks. Problems in product packaging and layouts faced artists as the semester progressed.

Many students in the drawing and painting class took the big jump to oil painting. On sunny days, class members sketched on the school grounds.

With Miss Weikel's approval, some students took independent art. Independents, besides handing in five sketches per week, pursued their own courses of study. Some painted in oils or developed mosaic designs.

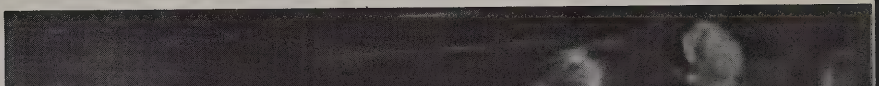
Senior Laura Honold cleans the rough edges from her clay vase after she has removed it from the mold.



Working with water color, Senior Jennifer Howard brings out the surface texture in her still-life.

Icy Streets Require Skill at the Wheel

Susan Favorite, left, points out the bicuspids to her twin sister, Sharon. Besides the teeth, health students learned about all the bones in the human body.

Avoiding those extra pounds, some girls played tennis, volleyball, and badminton while others furthered their skills on the trampoline and recently-purchased balance beam. On the other side of the gym partition, boys lifted weights and wrestled with one another, and ran the traditional laps around the gym balcony. For variation, swimming classes were offered for those wishing to improve their swimming ability and to learn rescue techniques.

With more up-to-date health books, health classes studied the current problems of narcotics and alcohol along with the usual first-aid.

As in past years, driver's education students gave their instructors a few more gray hairs. Driving in the ice and snow, however, provided excellent training for the winters to come.

Students at MHS were made aware of the need for safety in the home, on outings, and in the car.

Mr. Donald Cromer, points out the fanbelt to his beginning drivers.

The ability to spike a volleyball to be an important asset to MHS gym girls. After learning the basics of setting up the ball and serving it, tournaments were organized.

As a health service to the school, Nurse Gladys Conant administers hearing tests to MHS.

Last-minute instructions are given to beginning swimming class students before they start their warm-ups.

Sophomores Bev Fields and Kathy Odle help each other in Clothing II.

CHORE.

Senior Linda Vance finishes her clothing project by pressing the seams open.

Girls Can Peaches as Boys Construct Tools

The aroma of "something cookin'" told MHS students that the foods classes were busy. Along with a few cooking tricks, foods students learned the nutritious value of food. Clothing students were practical by making their own clothes. Girls in Home Nursing learned how to care for the sick and elderly through book study and practical application. Students who took Home Management learned about the rising costs of taking care of a home.

Home Ec girls were not the only practical ones at MHS. Boys took vocational shop courses to learn the skills of an industrial trade. Machine shop students, after learning the basics, made their own instruments with precision. Print shop students learned to set type and printed the Alltold. Draftsmen began with three-dimensional drawings and advanced to the construction of scale-model homes.

To be sure, the MHS vocational department played an important part in preparing students for their future roles in society.

In print shop, Sophomore Jack Derrickson runs the press which is used to turn out the Alltold and programs for school city.

Sports

Sports enthusiast displayed their school spirit at all MHS athletic events. The new athletic director, Mr. Victor Overman, revived all pep sessions by making student attendance voluntary. Crowded bus trips to away games showed the teams that students were really interested. MHS athletics generated feelings of sportsmanship and fellowship among all student supporters.

Single Wing Attack to MHS Varsity Football

Linebacker, Frank Firmani receives defensive instructions from Coach Lou Mihajlovich and Assistant Coach John Danaher. Frank won the best tackler award this season.

Mishawaka High School had a new team with an old attack. New Head coach, Lou Mihajlovich and athletic director, Vic Overman, brought back the good old days of football by reviving the single wing attack.

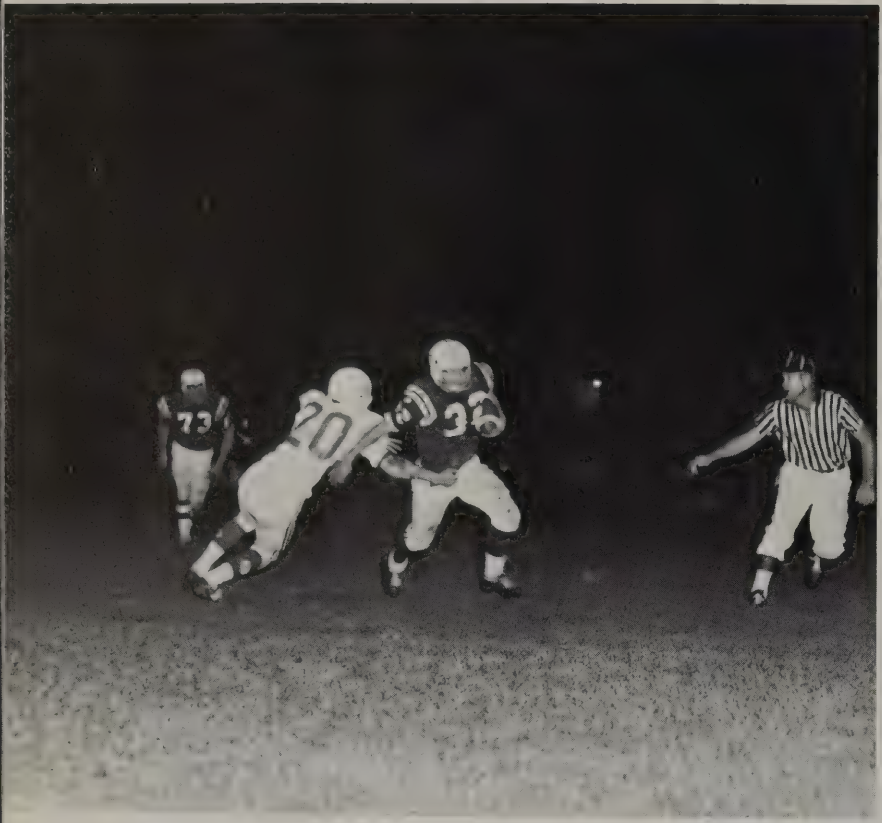
In the first game of the season, the Cavemen, playing with a new system and backfield, fumbled four times in an 18-7 loss to Adams. In the first home game, the defense could not stop the Wildcats as they handed MHS a 34-7 defeat. In the Goshen game, penalties plagued the team and cost Al Fultz a 94-yard touchdown run. In spite of this MHS defeated the Redskins 27-12 in the first win of the season. The next opponent to face Mishawaka was Washington. The Panthers managed to squeak by us 13-7.

At the Homecoming Game, the Cavemen stretched their mark against the Kingsmen to four games. Against Michigan City the Cavemen again lost another thriller, 13-7. State champs Elkhart came next to Mishawaka. The Blue Blazers smashed the team 42-0.

On Frank Steele Night the Cavemen battled old rival Central to a 20-20 tie. The Cavemen defeated Laporte 18-7 for 3-5-1 record.

Senior halfback, Al Fultz finds a stiffened Kingsmen defense in the second half as MHS outlasted Penn for a 7-6 win.

Quarterback Dan Overman makes his cut to pick up valuable yardage. Dan sparked a second half rally that tied rival Central 20-20.



Fullback Mark Salyer breaks a tackle to turn the corner for a big gain. Mark was third in yards gained for the team this season.

Halfback Al Fultz is stopped cold by a rugged Penn Kingsmen defense. The Kingsmen held to a scoreless second half.

Senior ball carrier Al Fultz is surrounded by the Elkhart defense in a 42-0 defeat. State champs Elkhart completely overpowered the Cavemen in the worst lost of the season.

Senior Harriers Lead Team to 11-2 Season

Long hours of practice paid off for Coach Carl Wisemen's Harriers as they finished the season with 11 wins and 2 losses. The team, running well in the LaPorte Invitational, finished in sixth place. The highlight of the year's season was a 4th place win in the sectional.

Starting the season were four non-conference matches with the teams from New Prairie, LaVille, Penn, and Clay. The Harriers outran all of these and went into conference play undefeated. In the first conference match against Washington the Cavemen easily defeated them. Michigan City, however, proved to be a tough opponent as the team fell by 7 points. The Marian, LaPorte and Adams teams were the next to fall to the Harriers. As the team returned to good form, Elkhart squeezed by MHS by one point in a very disheartening match. The team recovered from the loss to defeat Central. Following that victory, the varsity went on to out-distance Goshen and Riley.

The strain of victory is evident on the face of Senior Tom Kobb.

La Porte Foils MHS Sectional Bid for Top Title

With the return of the entire veteran squad, Coach Jerry Shaw's tennis team rolled through the 1968 season with a 10 win, two loss record.

The netmen, losing only to La-Porte and Goshen, had a fine 6-2 record in the conference.

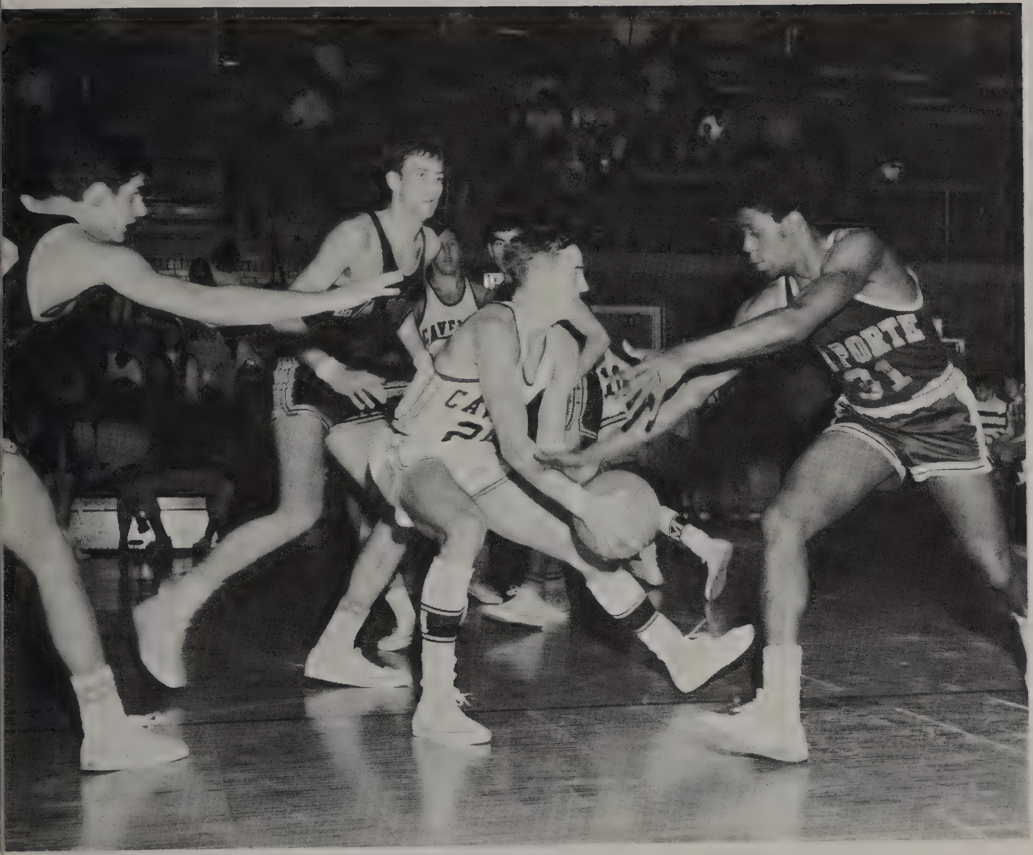
After opening the season with two consecutive shutouts against Central and Washington, the team lost to La-Porte. Then bouncing back, they went on to beat Elkhart. The next three matches against Adams, Riley, and Michigan City were won in well-fought battles. The second defeat came in the final conference match against Goshen.

Closing out the season in nonconference play, the netmen breezed through with victories over Jimtown, Penn, and Jackson.

In the sectional the tough MHS team placed second. John Gautier and Mike Boehnlein captured second place in doubles competition, and teammate Alan Germano finished third in singles.

Long hours of practice paid off for Coach Terry Shaws' netmen.

Sophomores Dominate Varsity: Bob Hambright Named MVP



Senior Bob Hambright receives a foul from a LaPorte player in a 59-57 upset win for Mishawaka. The Cavemen showed improved strength in this struggle with rival LaPorte.

Bob Hambright grabs rebound from Central foe in a 76-44 triumph for MHS.

Coach Max Eby watches intensely as his team maneuvers for a possible shot. Suddenly spotting an opening, Coach Eby directs his players with a sweep of his hand, and finally he calls over Sophomore Rick Watson to discuss the future strategy of the team.

Cavemen Capture Fifth Place in Conference Competition

Senior Randy Foster and Sophomore Dan Fowler tip up the ball for two points.

The Mishawaka High School basketball team started the season with a string of six straight losses to area teams. The first of these losses came at the hands of Plymouth in a 56-51 battle. They next lost to both Jackson and St. Joseph's by scores of 69-61 and 72-50. In their first conference game against Riley, the Wildcats defeated the Cavemen 74-62. Penn, the team's next opponent, beat the team in a heartbreaker, 50-49. Although the Cavemen tried their best, they just could not contain the hot Blazers, losing to them 66-52. Columbia City came next to Mishawaka and provided the Cavemen with a 70-60 win. The Cavemen were hosts to the Marian Knights the following week and lost in another close one, 55-50. In the Holiday tourney, the team defeated North Judson 51-48, but in the Championship game were beaten again by rival Marian, 60-55. Returning from Christmas vacation, the Cavemen fell to the Adams Eagles, 73-63. The next foe to come to Mishawaka were the Washington Panthers. While both teams committed endless errors, the Cavemen came out on top, 61-49. The team then came face to face with a four-game losing streak. The team lost to teams from Ft. Wayne South Side, Michigan City, Logansport, and LaSalle. Arch rival Central then came to town and the Cavemen trounced them in a 76-54 rout. LaPorte came next to Mishawaka and the team upset them, 59-57. The team then traveled to Muncie South Side and were beaten, 84-53. In the last game of the season Goshen riped them apart in an 81-46 defeat. When sectional time came around the team was up, and rival Adams barely escaped with a 65-62 win. However, the game was not decided until the final seconds of play.

This year's squad was mostly sophomores, and the beginning of the season was truly a fine start when the lack of experience is considered. Very few of the first games were lost by more than five points.

The locker room at half-time is a place for planning as Coach Eby tells his players their mistakes and how to correct them. Here, Tom Schnaible questions a play.

Gautier Pair

With the varsity gaining most of the attention, the B-Team doesn't get much notice but it is a vital part of the MHS basketball program. This year's team faced the same problems as the varsity and lost just as often. The teams victories came by defeating first Columbia City, 43-39. The next win was against Washington when the team defeated them, 39-38. The last two wins were over Central, 45-36 and Goshen, 63-44. They lost to teams from Plymouth, Jackson, St. Joseph, Riley, Penn, Elkhart, Marian, Adams, and several other conference and non-conference foes.

This year's Freshmen team came further than was expected. For a group so inexperienced as they, they rose miraculously in talent and skill. Several of the most accomplished players were Dennis Ward, Rick Robertson, Dan Week, and Rick Everts. The team won seven out of twenty games, not an impressive record, but, it does include a spectacular one-point win over Schmucker, the county champion.

Sophomore Gray Gautier snatches a rebound from the out-stretched hands of a rival Central Bear. The Cavemen killed the Bears, 76-54.

Breaking into the varsity, Gray Gautier steadily improves in his playing. Here he attempts to steal the ball from an opposing LaPorte player as Bob Hambright looks on. This year's squad consists mostly of sophomores gaining experience and finishing strong.

Varsity, 6-6

Led by the twelve regular season victories and conference championship of Senior Henry Wilk, the Cavemen closed with a 6-6 record and won the school's only title victory in the Penn Invitational. Wilk was the first Mishawaka wrestler to win a state title for the school. The grapplers' victories came over LaPorte, Adams, Riley, Jackson, Michigan City, and Central. The Cavemen losses came at the hands of Clay, Elkhart, Niles, Washington, Culver, and Penn.

Senior Henry Wilk was undefeated in regular season action, and all but one of these were pins. Wilk was also the winner of the Penn Invitational and voted the most valuable player in the meet. After winning the sectional, Wilk went on to win the regional and then the state title. Winning the state title was the fulfillment of Wilk's dream. Last year he had placed second in the state meet. Another top senior on the squad was Neal Tuminski who had a 9-1-1 record. The top junior on the squad was Larry Barkes with a 8-3-1 record. All but three of the varsity squad are returning next year.

Junior Lon Micinski struggles to free himself from an opponent's hold. Micinski figures to be a strong member on next year's varsity wrestling squad.

Lacking experience, the 1969 swimming team under the leadership of Coach Walter Ross and Captain Kurt Kaboth dropped to a 2-13 record after last year's winning season. With many underclassmen filling varsity positions, the swimming team had a building year. The tankmen beat Michigan City and Howe Military early in the season, but then were overpowered by stronger teams. The tankmen's top scorers for this year were Jon Waelbroeck in the one-meter spring board diving, Kurt Kaboth in the 100 yd. butterfly, and Larry McCay in various freestyle events. Other tankmen who scored consistently were Steve Baker, Jim Gill, and Tom DoBrodt. Seven Cavemen swimmers—Waelbroeck, Kaboth, and McCay—plus the 400 yd. relay team consisting of Mike Heintzberger, Bob Jones, Brian Roche, and Brad Watkins, placed in the sectional. Waelbroeck placed fourth but scored 320.45 points, enough to qualify him for the state swimming meet. Kaboth, this year's Conference champ, placed third in the sectional. McCay placed fifth, and the 400 yd. relay team placed sixth.

MHS Linksmen Win Steadily for 20-7 Season

The return of five lettermen brought a winning season for Coach Chelminiak's 1968 Golf Team. The linksmen started their 20-7 season with a winning streak of seven games. This streak featured wins over Riley and Washington but was halted by a loss to Goshen. The linksmen, led by junior Denny Kring and senior Claude Rodgers, then went on to win 8 and lose 7, alternately. Featured in the eight wins were MHS victories over such teams as Elkhart, Washington, and Michigan City. In a dual meet with Michigan City and Central, the linksmen defeated both teams to start a winning streak that lasted the rest of the season. This winning streak consisted of six consecutive wins. The teams conference record was 10-6, they finished in third place. In the Kaeppler Memorial tournament the team placed eighth.

Lack of hitting plagued the 1968 baseball team throughout the season and dropped the team to a 3-18-1 record. In the start of the season, the batmen tied a strong Marian team. After a disappointing defeat at the hands of Jackson, the batmen came on to defeat Washington 4-1, and Goshen 7-3. At this point MHS had a 2-1-1 record and was 2-0 in conference play. A defeat by Central, 10-2, began a series of losses that were to continue for sixteen games. During this losing streak, bad weather caused fielding mistakes and loss of games. As the season progressed, the cavemen began to improve. Adams, in the first meeting, defeated MHS rather easily, 19-1. In the second game, however, the Eagles had to be content with a 5-4 victory. Coming alive in the Concord game, the team defeated them 7-0. In the last game of the season, the squad was shut out by Marian, 7-0.

The B-team followed the pattern set by the varsity. After losing to Washington and Elkhart, the reserve bounced back to give Goshen a defeat, 6-2. This was followed by a win against Adams. Another win came after two more losses from LaPorte and Elkhart. The B-team finished with a 3-10 record.

Cindermen Face Tough Opposition; Finish 5-6

Straining to reach the finish, Bob Hambright and Chuck Hoffman battle for first place in the 100-yard hurdles.

With the return of almost the entire 1967 squad, Coach Wiseman was looking forward to a much better season than was enjoyed by the 1967 team. As the season commenced, it looked as if the team was going all the way. With three easy defeats of Goshen, Riley, and Nappanee to start the season, MHS looked good. However, the team ran into some trouble against Adams, losing 72-46. In the next two meets, opponents just made it past. LaSalle defeated MHS 62-56 and LaPorte won by three points. Marian fell to our team 81-37. Washington and Penn both defeated MHS rather easily by over 20 points. The thinlies next defeated Central by a score of 61-57. In the closing meet of the season, Mishawaka was let down in a 65-53 defeat at the hands of rival Elkhart. In the conference MHS placed third as the team did in the sectional. In the Goshen relays MHS placed well behind the pack, and in the regional, failed to score.

Cheer Squads

Their faces reflecting the thrill of victory and the tensions of defeat, the MHS cheerleading squads led the spectators in motivating the teams. The talented cheerleaders promoted good sportsmanship and school spirit to unify the student body.

School spirit was carried to the zenith this year at MHS with the help of the cheerleaders. Aided by the Freshmen and B-Team, the Varsity "started the fire burning" at the preschool bonfire. They inspired students on bus trips to area games, and at the homecoming pep rally and parade.

Their new cheers, coupled with the traditional ones, filled the air at games and pep sessions with enthusiastic, spirit-boosting cries.

The cheerleaders combined new ideas and acrobatic skills to incorporate more straight-arm cheers and routines into their long list of songs and yells.

To be successful cheerleaders, the girls practiced three times weekly under the supervision of Mrs. Gould.

GAA Promotes Sportsmanship and Fitness

Throughout the year G.A.A. provided a chance for physical fitness through activities and promoted good sportsmanship. The girls were called upon this year to exhibit their talents and teamwork in competition with various schools.

Girls in G.A.A. learned poise, fundamentals, and the skills of popular sports.

G.A.A. Volleyball teams competed interscholastically. They were host in March to the District II Volleyball Tournament.

The usual agenda of G.A.A. sports was enlarged by a stimulating gymnastics program. The balance beam was a favorite with Terry Ryno.

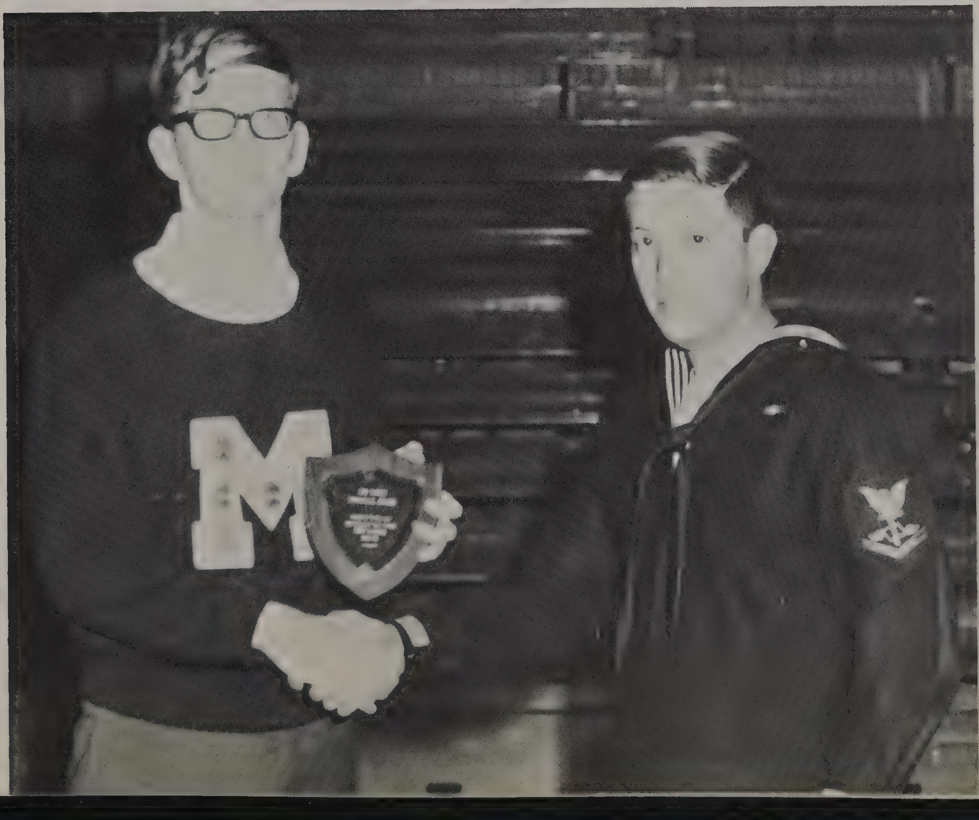
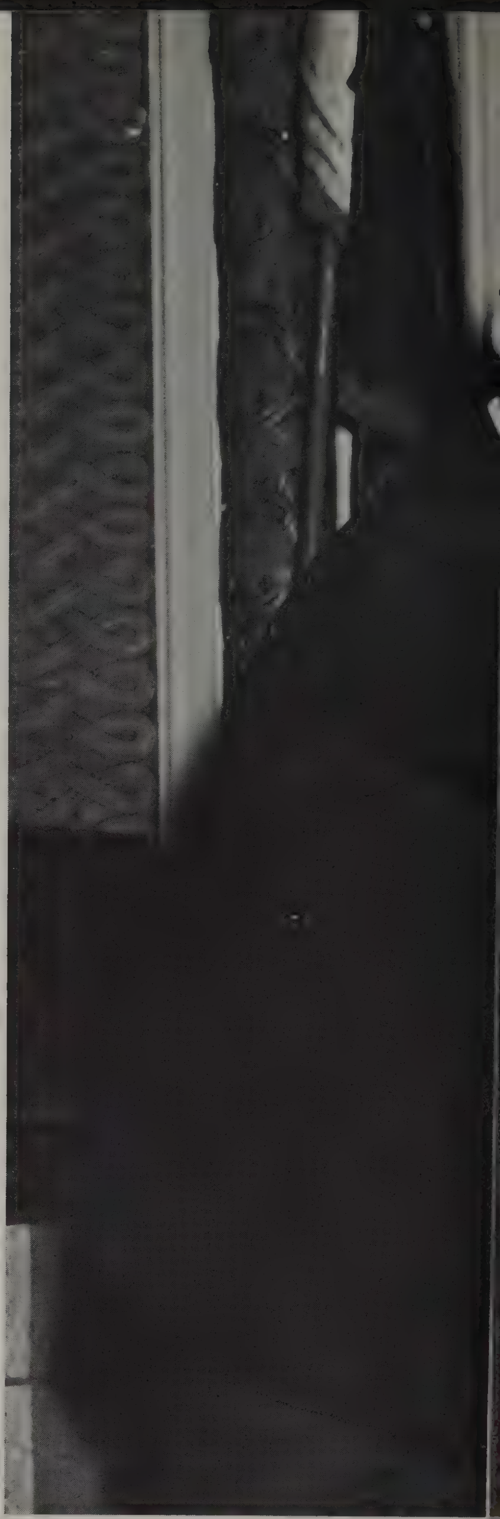
M-Men Join Community for Baldwin Benefit

Hard practices, strict training rules, and playing in tough competition help an athlete win a MHS letter.

Under the supervision of Mr. John Danaher, the boys participated in many service activities. They sold football programs, and concession during the Holiday Tournament. M-Mens promoted the sale of tickets, sold concessions and took tickets for the Denny Baldwin Benefit basketball game. Denny is a 1965 alumnus and a past member of M-Mens.



Kurt Kaboth, first recipient of the Jim Manis Memorial Award, pauses with John Manis who presented the award.



Personalities

The halls were filled with the sound of many happy, on-the-go teenagers ranging from lowly freshman to mighty seniors. Ruffles and tinted nylons seemed to be the big dress fad in '69. The 1968 Presidential Election stimulated the students to share and bring out their own personal views. Dances, parties, and weekend games still ranked as the top events for MHS students.

Acquires Former Yeager Mansion for Offices

Dr. Robert Freeman launched his second year as Superintendent of Mishawaka schools from School City's newly acquired offices. The Yeager Estate was purchased by School City last spring; and, only slightly modified, it now houses the offices of School City officials.

The central switchboard of a new efficient telephone system joining all Mishawaka schools was installed in School City's new home. Direct, private lines were connected to the principal's office of each school. The new system enables conferences among several schools to be held quickly and conveniently.

The School Board has acted on many of the recommendations made by the North Central Association of High Schools and Colleges in its evaluation of MHS two years ago. New courses in consumer economics, salesmanship, earth science, and third year courses in all foreign languages have been added to the curriculum. In addition, the library increased its book collection by over a thousand volumes.

Firmani Introduces Co-op Program for Seniors

In his first year as principal, Mr. Frank A. Firmani accomplished many of his major goals. His enthusiasm was reflected in the improved school spirit of the student body. Changes included placing sponsor room at the beginning of the day and installing the school's own laundry facilities. A Cooperative Education Program for seniors was started. New teaching aids were purchased for nearly every department. Ranking high among his plans is the construction of a new building for the vocational department.

Mr. Firmani first came to MHS as a drafting teacher in 1950. In 1954 he was appointed to the position of guidance counselor and two years later was promoted to head guidance counselor. He assumed his first position as principal in 1958 when he was appointed principal of Main Junior High School. In 1965 he was transferred to Beiger school, where he again served as principal.

Mr. Firmani was not the only new member of the administrative staff. Mr. Victor Overman brought many new ideas with him when he came to MHS as the school's new athletic director. He provided for the identification of Tupper Field in the form of a sign painted in mammoth letters on the west side of the field's press box. Mr. Robert Smith took over the duties of Dean of Boys. Together, Mr. Smith and Miss Wilson, Dean of Girls, checked student conduct and helped students with any problems.

Great Expectations Accompany the Energenic Class of '69

The Senior Class of 1969 won that long awaited status this year by taking over the senior lunch table and flashing their class rings.

As they assumed the roles of seniors, they also became the examples of school leaders to the student body. The first project tackled by the energetic 69'ers, "We Don't Need Ban, Penn's No Sweat", earned them the originality prize for the homecoming floats. November was spent in rehearsing for the play and working on committees. Dracula, the chilling melodrama, was so successful that it was held over for a third night, a first in MHS history.

The Christmas holidays found seniors relaxing from the long hours spent on their English source themes. With the vacation's activities filling up their two weeks, seniors were reluctant to return to school and take exams. The semester ended on a happy note, however, as they relieved tensions at the Mid-Semester Dance.

The second semester brought a change of schedules and faces. Spring fever and measles gripped the 69'ers as they planned their futures. Some took college examination board tests and filled out college applications while others looked around for year-round work, summer jobs, or a stint in the military service.

May brought the Junior-Senior Prom and the class's last finals at MHS. Class Day, a two week vacation, and Commencement completed the seniors' years at MHS.

Parties, dances, clubs, sports, general assemblies, and homework united the 433 pupils who had traveled from citizenship to sociology together.

Senior artist Mary Albanese puts finishing touches on one of her still lifes. Mary won national honors in the Scholastic Art Contest.

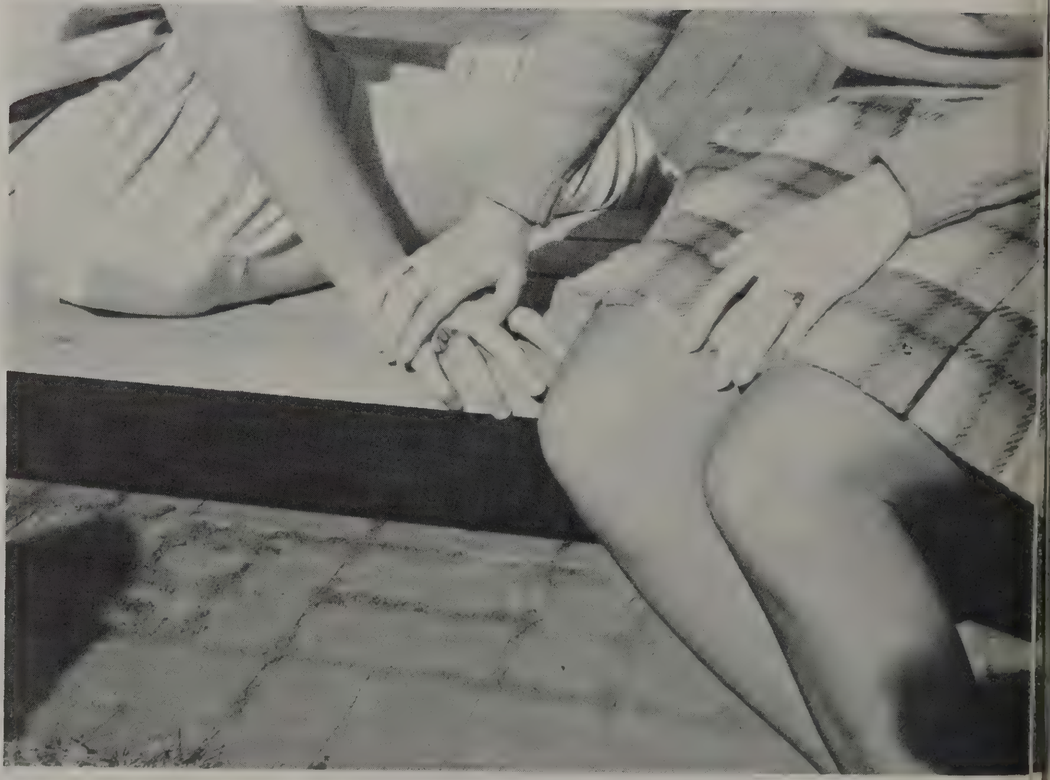
Because some seniors failed to make or keep photography appointments, their pictures could not be included in the senior section. Graduating seniors whose pictures do not appear are Greg Bemis, Linda Branham, Don DeBlock, Mike DeMuelenaere, Dennis Ferguson, Rebecca Gunnett, Linda Higgins, Art Mow, Robert Newcomer, Patricia Potts, Nancy Redding, William Renfroe, Randy Reynolds, Jim Rich, Bob Royer, Ken Strock, Tom Swadener, Leonard Vallance, Barb Whitfield, Rich Witwer, and Valerie Young. Some of the seniors whose pictures appear withdrew from school or for some other reason did not graduate.



Holding hands is not usual in the courtyard, but here two seniors show off their rings.

Mr. Rice, assistant principal, congratulates salutatorian Barb Kalil while Principal Mr. Firmani congratulates valedictorian Bob Morgan. These two scholars receive praise for leading the class for four years.

UNIORS ROLL EM UND

The Junior Class found themselves involved in classes, clubs, athletics, skits, and dances.

They showed their class spirit by taking the beauty prize with their Homecoming float, "Roll 'Em Under." Jo Anne Metsch and Terry Mathias represented the juniors in the 1969 Queen's Court. Juniors elected Spencer Walton as class president. Other officers included vice-president, Rick Needham; treasurer, Belinda Barnette; and secretary, Jo Anne Metsch. Ken Baiz and John Schroeder served as Board of Control members.

Juniors combined talents for the Junior Class play. The upper 5% of the class was inducted into National Honor Society.

College-bound students prepared for the SAT test while studying demanding courses such as chemistry, algebra, and English.

"Roll 'em Under" is the rollicking theme which won the prize for beauty.

Andrea DeVleigher spends many hard hours practicing ballet in order to perfect the different jumps and motions used.

Spencer Walton and Dan Bonnell sign up to see their counselor to make sure their schedules are right for graduation.

Junior boys show that our school has spirit by backing our Cavemen at the homecoming game against the Penn Kingsmen.

Active Sophomores Increase Club Memberships

Wise to the tricks used on them last year, the Sophomore Class ventured into their first fun-loving prank by issuing elevator passes. Sixteen sophomores voiced opinion in Student Council while Joe Trimboli was on the Board of Control. Pam Jackson was selected as Homecoming attendant for the Queen's Court, and the first sophomore class float was built.

Mary Kay Fagan and Marlene Lennox were on the varsity cheerleading squad. All sports had sophomores participating on the teams.

While some studied geometry, biology, bookkeeping or a foreign language, a few lucky ones took Driver's Education.

Many students learned about the customs and the land of their first exchange student, Mayumi Takasuna, from Shiojiri, Japan. Mishawaka's sister city. Mayumi's "sister", Marcia Pooley, was welcomed after her year's sojourn in Shiojiri.

Bombardment of Ability Tests Fills First High School Days

Students coming from various public and parochial schools entered the school building on Orientation Day bewildered, anxious, and hopeful. Wandering around the school, the 358 freshmen soon found their ways through the maze of halls, the classes, the traditions, and the rules.

Making friends with their junior high rivals, they combined their effort with the aid of Mr. Al Smith and counselor Mrs. Jeanette Davis, to construct the first freshman homecoming float at MHS and elected Cindy Shindledecker to represent them in the Queen's Court. They actively participated in the Student Council, and joined the wide range of clubs. With the aid to their cheerleaders, the frosh backed their teams.

Amidst the bombardment of reading and interest tests, the freshman spent many hours learning the "new" English grammar and working complex algebra problems. Some chose to take general business instead of the traditionally required home economics and trade courses.

A fifth of the class was ambitious enough to begin their language studies. While others prepared notebooks for different classes.

Cokes, Cookies, Cake, Make a Misko, Too

"Hey, look at this one!" exclaims Jill Falkenau as she and Greg Kuharic inspect one of the many four-color pictures in the 1969 Miskodeed.

The Miskodeed staff has tried to cover every activity and to cover the everyday school life at MHS.
Although there were many hectic moments getting deadlines finished, the staff enjoyed putting the book together.
We could not complain about being under-fed or having bad working conditions.
The Miskodeed staff turned out to be Sandy's and Cline's best customers.
With our patchwork carpet
and beautifully decorated room, we had all the comforts of home.
We even had a portable television in the room during one of our night deadlines.
One of the editors just could not miss "Laugh-In".
Many hours went into this book and the staff worked extra hard primarily to show . . . Here's Where Acknowledgements

Special thanks go to Mr. Richard Kennard from Newsfoto for his suggestions on the layout and cover of this book. The staff also would like to thank Mr. Edward Andros for taking many of the sports and group pictures. We also acknowledge Mr. Richard Martens and Mr. Gene Zehring for pictures. A salute goes to Mr. Justin Probst for the rug underlay which was a great contribution to the Miskodeed room. In addition the staff wishes to thank all of the teachers and students for their cooperation and help in the production of this 1969 Miskodeed.

In Memoriam

The death of Mr. Russell Myers was a tragic blow to the community. He had devoted twenty-six years of his life to serving Mishawaka High School as principal. One of the foremost high school principals in the state, he had a record of achievement in the field of administration by raising the standard of education at MHS. In addition to his duties as principal, he actively participated in many community functions.
